MISS FONTAINE FACES PERJURY INDICTMENT

MRS. EVAN BURROWES FONTAINE

New York, March 7.—The Rockland County Grand Jury is considering charges of perjury against Mrs. Evan Burrowes Fontaine Adair, dancer, and her mother, growing out of their recent testimony in an unsuccessful suit to recover $1,000,000 from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney for breach of promise.

Miss Fontaine is said to have returned to New York city, where she is dancing nightly at the Little Club.

Early last January, when Supreme Court Justice Tompkins at Nyack sustained charges of fraud made by Whitney in his counter suit and vacated the annulment of the dancer's marriage to Sterling Adair of Waco, Texas, he directed the District Attorney of Rockland County to place all records in the case before the Grand Jury.

Miss Fontaine had obtained her annulment from Justice Tompkins in July, 1920. He declared a gross fraud had been perpetrated on the court and rank perjury had been committed by the dancer and her mother.

The annulment was obtained on the ground that she had lived with Adair only three hours, the justice said, but the records showed they had lived together for a year after marriage.

Adair died after Miss Fontaine got the annulment and subsequently sued Whitney. An infant son, born December 14, 1920, figured in the suit.

Boston Girl Tells How She Was Wooed and Won by Alleged Bigamist

"My head swam with the thought of marrying such a grand man—all the girls were crazy about him—I was only eighteen—he seemed wonderful—now I hate him!"

These are phrases from the story told today by Catherine Lynn of No. 25 Wainwright street, Dorchester, of how she loved and was wooed and won by Harold Schwarm, dishwasher and "Prince de Bourbon," now under arrest at New Britain, Ct.

He is held for forgery. He faces a posible charge of bigamy. Catherine Lynn says he married her December 24, 1918. They are the parents of a boy, the police say.

HIS SECOND "BRIDE".

Schwarm took to New Britain a new bride, formerly Miss Lillian Wilkomerson, a Columbia University co-ed. The police say they were married in March, 1921, and that the license was granted to "Dr. Reginald von de Vere."

Schwarm laughs at the accusa-

Girl's Temperature at 118 Breaks Thermometer

Escanaba, Mich., March 7.—Efforts to take the temperature of Miss Evelyn Lyons, whose strange case has baffled science by her retention for two weeks of a temperature of 114 degrees, failed today when the attending physician's thermometer broke. Medical thermometers are not graduated above 114 degrees, but Dr. H. F. Defnet attempted to take the girl's temperature with one which has been equipped with emergency markings above that point.

The attempt failed when the expanding mercury reached the top of the tube and blew the end off. Dr. Defnet estimated the girl's temperature at 118 degrees.

TWO BAY STATE MEN FOUND DEAD BY GAS

Nashua, N. H., March 7.—James Harriman, and Martin Mumay were found dead in bed with gas jets in their room turned partly on today.

Mrs. Richard Gilworthy, keeper of the East Pearl street lodging house where they died, said the men had been drinking. They came here from Winchendon, Mass. Police said the deaths were probably accidental.

The men had been employed by a local manufacturing plant.

DYNAMITE CUSTOMS IN DUBLIN

One Man Killed When Blast Is Set Off by Hidden Land Mine

By International News Service.

Dublin, March 7.—Patrick Kelley, a Customs guard, was killed when Republicans dynamited the Customs Office in Beresford place today.

The explosion was set off by a hidden land mine.

Telephone service was badly crippled owing to the cutting of wires. Fire broke out, but it was prevented from spreading into the business section.

Fourteen prisoners escaped from the gaol at Galway, while twenty-five others who made the attempt at the same time were prevented from getting away by Free State guards.

Three Free State officers and two soldiers were blown to pieces at Knocknagashel, County Kerry, by the explosion of a trap mine which was found in a dump.

Five Irregulars and four Free Staters were killed in a fight at Guarrane in the Kerry Hills. Eleven of the Irregulars were captured by the troops, and with them were taken a quantity of arms and machine guns.

REAR-ADMIRAL DIES OF CIVIL WAR CAUSES

Washington, March 7.—Rear-Admiral Franklin C. Prindle, U. S. N., retired, died in the Naval Hospital here from uremic poisoning, which physicians said was brought about by disabilities incurred during the Civil War. He was eighty-one years old. At the outbreak of the Civil War, Admiral Prindle entered the navy and participated in many engagements. He was retired in 1901.

GEORGIA GOVERNOR ACCEPT LEGAL POST

Washington, March 7. (By International News Service).—Governor Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia will soon resign to accept an appointment as Special Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, it was learned at the Department of Justice today. He will be assigned to Attorney-General Daugherty's staff of war fraud investigators.

Ground Hog Tells the World He's a Wise One

"Hello — Hello — Boston American."

"Yes."

"Well, this is the Ground Hog."

"Uh, uh, what's the matter?"

"Nothing much. Only, you know, some folks don't take any stock in me and my weather predictions. Perhaps you remember, on February 2, I came out of the ground, saw my shadow and went back because I knew there would be six weeks more of Winter?"

"Yes, yes, what about it?"

"Oh, nothing special. Only just remember that I told you so. That's all!"

REPORTS SUGAR CROP IN CUBA IS NORMAL

The Cuban sugar crop, approximately 4,000,000 tons, is normal. The retail price in Boston today is ten cents a pound. Why?

Captain A. Valvik of the Norwegian steamer Gunny, is directing the unloading today of 25,000 bags of cane with a weight of 8,000,000 pounds at the American Sugar Refining Company wharf in South Boston.

This is the third full cargo of Cuban sugar to reach Boston in a week.

Captain Valvik is authority for the statement that the crop is normal. The maritime bureau of the Chamber of Commerce announced the arrival of the sugar shipments.

Officials at the American Sugar Refining Company stated the price had not changed since last Friday when sugar took a sudden jump. They do not expect any change the remainder of the week.

Wholesalers are getting $9.15 a 100 pounds or $9.25 when sold in two and five-pound lots.

DEATH IN BLIZZARD, TRAFFIC HIT HARD

The twenty-seventh storm of the Winter today wrecked two vessels, killed one man, closed all schools in Greater Boston, demoralized street car and railroad traffice and telephone and telegraph service and caused an unknown amount of property damage.

The nor'easter, the worst of the season, whipped the sea to such a fury that fear is felt in shipping circles for the safety of other craft off Boston Harbor. Outbound ships are held at virtually all Atlantic ports.

A tremendous surf is pounding all along the Massachusetts coast and wind and waves reached such strength that barges, anchored in President's Roads and other parts of Boston Harbor, drifted from anchorage.

Rural communities within fifty miles of Boston were cut off from communication with the outside world except by seriously impaired wire service.

STORM TO END TONIGHT.

Seve inches of snow had fallen by 10 o'clock this morning, the last official reading. Forecaster Smith of the United States Weather Bureau estimates that the record of the year of nine inches in January will be surpassed if the snow continued fall-

NAMES ROTHSCHILDS IN DIVORCE SUIT

London, March 7.—The Express says that Wilfred Hugh Julian Gough, son of General Gough, Afghan war hero, has filed suit for divorce from his wife Sylvia Phyllis Gough, daughter of George Cawston, the South African financier.

Mrs. Gough was formerly an actress on the New York stage and in motion pictures in America.

PRISONER ESCAPES CHARLES STREET JAIL

SHOOTS AND STABS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Milford, March 7.—Enraged by jealousy and in the presence of his six startled children, James Tamboro of Hopedale today stabbed and shot his wife and fired two bullets into his own head.

LEGION POST ANGRY OVER PARADE ROSTER

Michael J. Perkins Post, American Legion, may not march in the St. Patrick's Day parade in South Boston. Members of the post voted not to participate unless they are given their proper place in line, which they say is directly behind the Spanish War Veterans.

Chief Marshal Thomas J. Gough, who is a member of Thomas A. Fitzgerald Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars said he had not yet formulated a roster, but that he could see no objection to the American Legion marching behind the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Therefore it looks like a legionless parade.

Relief Lightship Vessel No. 90, with headquarters at Boston and Great Round Shoal, was blown on the rocks on the east side of Mashayena Island, Vineyard Sound. Her crew of five officers and nine men were rescued at great peril by the crew of the revenue cutter, Gresham.

The four-masted Boston schooner Augusta G. Hilton is being pounded to pieces at West Chop, at the entrance to Vineyard Sound. She is dragging at both anchors and only fifteen feet of water is under her stern. The crew managed to reach safety ashore at low tide. The Hilton is owned by Crowell & Thurlow of this city. She cleared from this port Saturday, without cargo, for Norfolk, Va., to load coal.

REVERE MAN FOUND DEAD.

Matthew J. Haines, sixty-seven, died while fighting his way from his home, No. 183 Campbell avenue, Revere, to Crescent Beach station of the Narrow Gauge railroad, where he was employed. Pedestrians stumbled over his body in the snow not far from the depot. He leaves his wife, one son, Lawrence and one daughter, Mrs. Vesta L. Simonton.

Early in the day Jeremiah E. Burke, superintendent of the Boston schools, ordered that there be no sessions today.

Similar action was taken in Malden, Medford, Melrose, Somerville, Brookline, Braintree, Winthrop, Everett, Wakefield, Newton, Winchester, Reading, Revere, Stoneham, Saugus and Quincy and other nearby places.

The Boston Elevated reported the situation well in hand. The L had 35 plows and 250 men at work clearing the tracks. Other men and more plows were in readiness in event of necessity.

TROLLEYS JUMP RAILS.

In general the street car service was good, under the conditions. The [illegible] of trouble was experienced in Malden, where two cars jumped the rails.

The worst delay was at Pleasant and Florence streets, where both lines were blocked by a derailed car. One hour passed before the trucks were jacked back on the tracks. Thousands hastening to work were delayed.

A second tie up occurred at Salem street in Maplewood square, Malden, where a trolley car jumped the rails and a delay of one-half hour ensued. This blocked traffic from the Maplewood and Linden sections.

Scores of plows and shovellers were sent out by the steam roads. The Boston & Maine suffered the worst. Trains on the Salem and Newburyport branches were as late as any time this Winter. The main lines escaped lightly.

TRAINS ARE DELAYED.

New Haven and Boston & Albany officials reported "slight delay on various lines, but nothing more than ordinary under such conditions." Passengers told a somewhat different story of delays, as much as one hour in certain instances.

A few lines of the prosaic daily police report indicates as well as anything the terrific force of the wind that accompanied the snow.

"Lieutenant Swendeman, Station 8, telephoned that all is well along the waterfront. Several barges were blown from anchorage but are in no danger."

A terrific surf battered against the sea wall at Winthrop and Point Shirley, sending the spray high in air. Residents there are afraid that the sea will come over the wall at high tide.

ment block at No. 812 Main street.

Mrs. Eva Hennessey, one of the tenants, was overcome by smoke, but was revived after being taken to a neighbor's house.

The fire started in the basement. It was caused, it is said, by an overheated furnace. A policeman sent in an alarm, then raced through the building, rousing the tenants. He then assisted some of the occupants to the street. Firemen also helped tenants out.

The fire, smoke and water damage was estimated at $4,000.

Lower Butter Prices? 3,320,000-Pound Cargo Hits U.S.

New York, March 7.—Lower prices for butter are confidently predicted following the arrival of the largest cargo of creamery butter ever imported into the United States. The shipment consisted of 95,000 boxes aboard steamship Tekoa from Auckland, New Zealand.

The cargo totals 3,320,000 pounds and is only the forerunner of a fleet of four steamers with cargoes aggregating 9,240,000 pounds that will be brought to the United States from New Zealand to tide over the season of limited production which will end about June 1, when the new grass butter comes into market.

OKLAHOMA BAND KIDNAPS DOCTOR

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 7.—No trace had been found today of Dr. H. Cheston Goldberg, who was seized outside his home by four men and whisked away in a motor car. Dr. Goldberg fought, but was overpowered, dragged to the street and forced into his abductors' automobile. Mrs. Goldberg rushed to aid her husband, but was beaten off. She declared that so far as she knew the physician had no enemies.

Telegraph Briefs

Lansing, Mich.—The Lower House of the Michigan Legislature has rejected a capital punishment bill, 51 to 46. A resolution is pending in the Senate for a referendum on the death penalty.

Camden, N. J.—Camden, the fifth largest city in New Jersey, at a special election, adopted the commission form of government.

New Haven—Simon N. Whitney, 19, sophomore at Yale, brother of Miss Caroline Whitney, who refused a Phi Beta Kappa election at Vassar, has turned down offers to join four major fraternities. He declined to discuss his act.

GIRL SAYS SHE HATES HER "PRINCE"

tions of Catherine Lynn; says he never saw or heard of her. But here is Catherine's own story:

"Schwarm is the man I married. I can identify him. He had good looks, a dashing manner. That's how he got me. I was only eighteen. He seemed wonderful, sported a cane, and everything.

"I was a plain cashier in a Boston department store when I met him. My head swam with the thought of marrying such a grand man. I wanted to be married quickly. But he insisted that we have a real elegant wedding and I gave in.

HAD PLENTY OF CASH.

"Money—he had barrels of it—so much that I wondered where it all came from.

"Is it any wonder that I believed his story? Would any other girl have done differently? He was exceedingly good looking and well dressed and acted the part of a dignified medical man.

"All the girls were crazy about him and my rivals were many. More than once I have cried myself to sleep when I thought of the smile he had flashed on some other girl, a friend of mine, perhaps.

"He always carried a cane and I was proud to go anywhere with him. He could make wonderful love.

"He used to dress at times in his uniform of a Russian surgeon-general. During all the time I knew him he was a doctor. He never told me he was a prince, though he did say he was descended from the French nobility.

JUST LIKE A DREAM

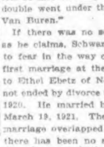
"The bare thought of me, working in the basement of a department store, becoming the bride of a famous surgeon and nobleman was just like a dream. I wish it had been.

"He gave me a lovely diamond engagement ring. But, after we were married, he got it back and I didn't see it again. I suppose he pawned it.

"I married him December 24, 1918. Now I know he has been married twice since then.

"Now I hate him—I hate him!"

But Schwarm calmly denies Catherine's story, saying that the man she married must be his double. His latest statement is:



Harold Schwarm.

"I never saw and never heard of Catherine Lynn until she said she was my wife and that I was the father of her child. I never heard of Roxbury, Mass., where she lives.

"She claimed me as her husband while I was posing as Prince Louis de Bourbon, as I might have been doing yet and having a lovely time if it were not for her interference.

"Then I was living in New York with my present wife—and the only woman I ever loved—and with my monkey and dog and secretary. I had a lot of money then but am not saying where I got it.

BLAMES HIS "DOUBLE."

"I can explain this so-called second wife. It was my double who married her. He has got me into lots of embarrassing situations. This double went under the name of Dr Van Buren."

If there was no second marriage as he claims, Schwarm has nothing to fear in the way of bigamy. His first marriage at the age of fifteen to Ethel Ebetz of New Britain was not ended by divorce until December, 1920. He married his last wife on March 19, 1921. The second alleged marriage overlapped them both. If there has been no second marriage there is no need of a divorce.

Radio 'Bugs' Swarm on Upper Floors of Hub Hotels

A shortage of rooms on the upper floors of Boston hotels is reported. The "radio bug" is the cause.

According to hotel managers, requests are becoming more and more frequent for upper suites and rooms. The fact that traveling men are carrying radio sets in their luggage to help pass the time is given as the reason.

Permanent residents of Back Bay hotels are also reported to have become radio addicts. The upper floors are considered more desirable for the hanging of antennae.

SELZNICK FILM CORPORATION BANKRUPT

New York, March 7.—Creditors representing $3,000 in claims filed a petition in bankruptcy against the Selznick Pictures Corporation.

Lewis J. Selznick, its president, was reputed two years ago to have $10,000,000. He won fame in the film world by promoting Clara Kimball Young, whose husband, James Young, sued him for $100,000 for alleged alienation of affections.

After the filing of the petition it was learned that Selznick and his friends had been busy for a fortnight trying to prevent court action.

In the efforts to avoid recourse to the bankruptcy court, it was said that a drastic plan of reorganizing the Selznick Corporations had been promised.

LABORITE WINS LIVERPOOL ELECTION

London, March 7 (By Associated Press).—The excitement aroused in the House of Commons and the political clubs over the defeat of John Waller Hills, financial secretary of the treasury, in a Parliamentary bye-election, spread to the general public today.

Aside from the unprecedented defeat of three ministers in succession, only a few months after the new government came into power, the significance of the breach in the solid Conservative phalanx of Liverpool impresses the public. Mr. Hills was defeated in the Edge Hill division of that city by a plurality of about 1,000. The seat was won by J. H. Hayes, Labor candidate, who is said to have been surprised at his victory.

With the exception of the Scotland division of Liverpool, which the veteran Nationalist, Thomas P. O'Connor has represented since 1885, every one of Liverpool's eleven divisions has been represented by a Conservative for many years. Sir W. W. Rutherford, the sitting member for Edge Hill, who retired to provide a seat for Mr. Hills after the latter was taken into the Cabinet, has been returned by large majorities in every election for the last twenty years.

It is noteworthy that only fifty-eight per cent. of the electorate voted yesterday. This showing is generally attributed to a refusal to support a nominee of the government whose policy on the housing question and some other issues is held in profound disapproval by a faction of the conservatives.

TO THE PUBLIC:

Although the cost of shoes has substantially increased since last Fall, there will be no change in the TRAVELER policy for Spring and Summer, 1923. ALL TRAVELER SHOES WILL CONTINUE TO SELL FOR $4 and $5, NOTHING HIGHER.

This is accomplishing what seems today to be the impossible; that of producing a shoe of the superior TRAVELER quality and style to sell at these low prices. Only tremendous volume such as we attained during the year 1922 permits us to offer the public such high-grade shoes at $4 and $5.

This season we must increase our volume of sales even more to make up for the rise in costs. We have prepared ourselves with a more complete and original assortment of shoes for Men and Women than ever before. Visit the nearest TRAVELER store. See what the TRAVELER policy has done. YOU WILL FIND VALUES THAT CANNOT BE EQUALED AND A SMARTNESS OF STYLE THAT YOU WILL HARDLY FIND IN SHOES SELLING AT MUCH HIGHER PRICES.

The President Might Say: "I'll Run Your Roads" Man's Suicide and Woman's A Man With a Maid

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright. 1923. Star Co.

PRESIDENT HARDING is "vexed by continuation of the rail strike." He writes telling how the nation has suffered because railroads could not deliver coal.

Let the President say to railroad owners: "If you can't run your roads properly, and supply the people with coal, I'll do it for you, as head of the nation."

The coal would begin to move.

RAILROADS have outgrown private ownership, but unfortunately the government has not outgrown railroad control.

YESTERDAY a woman hanged herself on a tree by her apron string, and was found dead. Newspapers write about it because, for a woman, that is an unusual suicide.

What difference in masculine and feminine brains causes men to shoot and hang themselves, while women drink acid that burns them horribly, jump in the river, or turn on the gas? Study that out psychologically.

Here's one answer—Woman represents the passive and man the active force. Man kills HIMSELF. Woman lets gas, poison or drowning kill her.

IN PARTS of Russia travelers take machine guns in their sleighs to fight the packs of wolves. Wolves will eat, whoever starves. It's worse in Ireland. Yesterday afternoon there was "heavy firing in Dublin." Rebels attacked the City Hall. George Bernard Shaw says his Irish nationality was once a valuable asset to him in England. Now he must apologize for it. Some Irishman will reply, "The time to apologize for your native land is not when that land is in trouble."

HARRY DEVINE, aged twenty, learned that his lady did not love him. He swallowed thirty grains of arsenic, then wrote about death and broken hearts as he staggered through the moonlight past a graveyard. "Even dying is monotonous," wrote he, and this, which reminds the old of other days:

"I guess I am a fool, but I could not be a fool about anything better on earth or in heaven than her."

BAD GRAMMAR, but fine sentiment. That sort of feeling is responsible for the perpetuation of the race. Had the young man taken two grains of arsenic he would be dead. The thirty-grain overdose saved him. Women have raised a fund for him, and he is going to buy a diamond ring for the girl and try again. A complete story.

THE SOLUTION of the drug problem is in the hands of England, for England controls opium and encourages its production.

The story is told in a British "blue book." England, with a drug monopoly in Bengal and the united provinces, lends money without interest to those that cultivate opium under a license. England takes the opium at a fixed price, and sells it at auction to the highest bidders. They include smugglers that bring the opium to the United States. The traffic is highly profitable.

Money paid to England by smugglers that bring opium here will help pay the debt that England owes to the United States.

We lend money to England to fight the Germans, and ge part of our pay in opium, morphine, etc. The story is told, wi[illegible] quotations, from official [illegible] ments in the New Rep[illegible] March 7.

MR. HOOVER may investigate the rise of sugar prices. That would be desirable.

SELF MASTERY Through Conscious AUTOSUGGESTION

Mme. H——, at Maxeville. General eczema, which is particularly severe on the left leg. Both legs are inflamed, above all at the ankles; walking is difficult and painful. I treat her by suggestion. That same evening Mme. H.——is able to walk several hundred yards without fatigue. The day after the feet and ankles are no longer swollen and have not been swollen again since. The eczema disappears rapidly.

Mme. P——, at Laneuveville. Pains in the kidneys and the knees. The illness dates from ten years back and is becoming worse every day. Suggestion from me, and autosuggestion from herself. The improvement is immediate and increases progressively. The cure is obtained rapidly, and is a permanent one.

Mme. Z——, of Nancy, felt ill in January, 1910, with congestion of the lungs, from which she had not recovered two months later. She suffers from general weakness, loss of appetite bad digestive trouble, rare and difficult bowel action, insomnia, copious night-sweats. After the first suggestion, the patient feels much better, and two days later she returns and tells me that she feels quite well. Every trace of illness has disappeared, and all the organs are functioning normally. Three or four times she has been on the point of sweating, but each time prevented it by the use of conscious autosuggestion. From this time Mme. Z—— has enjoyed perfectly good health.

M. X——, at Belfort, cannot talk for more than ten minutes or a quarter of an hour without becoming completely aphonous. Different doctors consulted find no lesion in the vocal organs, but one of them says that M X——suffers from senility of the larynx, and this conclusion confirms him in the belief that he is incurable.

He comes to spend his holidays at Nancy, and a lady of my acquaintance advises him to come and see me. He refuses at first, but eventually consents in spite of his absolute disbelief in the effects of suggestion. I treat him in this way nevertheless, and ask him to return two days afterwards. He comes back on the appointed day, and tells me that the day before he was able to converse the whole afternoon without becoming aphonous.

Two days later he returned again to say that his trouble had not reappeared, although he had not only conversed a great deal but even sung the day before. The cure still holds good and I am convinced that it will always do so.

EXPECT ZR-1 TO BREAK RECORDS AROUND WORLD

New York, March (By International News Service).—Conquest of the North and South Poles by air is contemplated by the United States Navy, as well as a record-breaking trip around the world.

A daring assault on the polar regions with ZR-1, gigantic dirigible now under construction at Lakewood, N. J., has long been discussed by officials and has met with the tentative approval of the navy department, it was declared today by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, in an address delivered at the Westinghouse broadcasting station. It is believed the ZR-1 will prove herself capable of circumnavigating the globe in a period of time hitherto thought impossible.

"Filled with non-inflammable helium gas," he said, "the ZR-1 will not be affected by the atmospheric conditions and changes surrounding such a flight and her great speed will serve her to tremendous advantage.

"The ZR-1 should be completed about the first of July and interest in dirigibles will rise to the greatest heights as a result of demonstrations with the big boat which will be given all over the country.

CLEVELAND COP SHOT IN LIQUOR ARRESTS

Cleveland, March 7 (By International News Service).—Patrolman J. E. Saxton was shot and perhaps fatally wounded early today in an attempt to arrest four men wanted on charges of violating the liquor laws. Two other patrolmen arrested the men following the shooting and say one of the four admitted he fired the shot. No charge has been made pending the outcome of Saxton's injuries.

TURKS REJECT LAUSANNE TREATY

Constantinople, March 7.—Advices from Angora state the Turkish National Assembly has decided the Lausanne Treaty is inacceptable, as contrary to the national pact.

The government, however, was authorized by an important majority to continue negotiations under certain conditions.

The first of these provides for settlement, within a limited period, of the vital Mosul oil question.

The second condition is that all financial, economic and administrative questions be settled in conformity with the complete independence of the Turkish nation.

The evacuation of all occupied territories immediately after the signature of peace is demanded.

In reaching its decision, the Assembly declined all responsibility in case the powers insist upon acceptance of the spirit and letter of the treaty.

MOONSHINERS KILL 2 SHERIFFS

"Love Pirate" Asks Vindication

BODIES ARE BURIED IN SWAMP

Pressed Down Into Mud and Covered With Carcas of Cow, Slayers Confess

Franklinton, La., March 7.—The bodies of Wesley Crain and Wiley Pierce, deputy sheriffs, slain Saturday by moonshiners, were found today, buried in mud, into which they had been pressed and covered with the carcass of a dead cow.

They were found about a quarter of a mile from a destroyed moonshine still in a swamp about eight miles from here.

The slayers, John Murphy and Gideon Rester, moonshiners, have confessed, and led the officers to the burial spot, it was announced by District Judge Prentiss B. Clark.

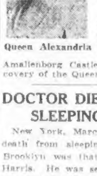
They ha previously been rounded up with ten others and placed in jail by a posse of about 800 armed men, who had beat the woods and swamps for several days.

The bodies were found a few feet apart and showed signs of having been pressed into the mud by the feet of their slayers. The body of Pierce was mutilated with an axe, indicating, according to authorities, that it was first planned to dismember the bodies and dispose of them in some other way than burial.

The slayers told the sheriff of how the deputies had come to their home, raided the still and placed both of them under arrest. They were searched and then the party started on foot out of the swamp.

Coming to a narrow lane, the four walked in single file. Murphy, according to Judge Clark, pulled a pistol he had concealed on his person and shot Deputy Pierce, killing him. He then killed Deputy Crain.

QUEEN ALEXANDRIA RESTS COMFORTABLY



Queen Alexandria

Copenhagen, March 7.—Queen Alexandria was resting comfortably today after undergoing a serious abdominal operation, which proved successful. The patient's condition, it is added, is satisfactory.

The operation required ninety minutes.

American Minister Prince was the first person to sign the sympathy list at Amalienborg Castle. Complete recovery of the Queen is expected.

DOCTOR DIES FROM SLEEPING SICKNESS

New York, March 7.—The latest death from sleeping sickness in Brooklyn was that of Dr. Burton Harris. He was secretary for four years of the Kings County Medical Society, belonged to several national medical bodies and was recently on the staff of Wyckoff Heights Hospital. Since January 1, according to records of the department of health, ninety-seven have died from sleeping sickness in Greater New York. During the same period last year, when the "epidemic" occurred, the number of deaths for the whole city was only twenty-six.

DORCHESTER BOY INJURED BY AUTO

An automobile owned and operated by Alfred T. Wiggin, of No. 42 Tremont street, Brighton, struck and caused severe injury to Chester Sanborn, nine-year-old son of James P. Sanborn, of No. 16 Inwood street, Dorchester. The boy is said to have run out into the street in the path of the machine. The accident occurred in Bowdoin street.

MORTGAGE CO. PROBED BY O'BRIEN

Seek Head of Concern Who Nearly Wrecked Dr. Hillis' Church in Brooklyn

While a search is being made for the missing Frank L. Ferguson, president of the Greater Boston Mortgage Company, investors await the result of District Attorney O'Brien's investigation of the affairs of the company.

If Ferguson, who drifted into business after a career as a college president and pastor, has lived up to past performances, the investors may have just cause for pertubation.

Only recently Ferguson was defendant in an equity proceeding growing out of a transaction with a customer in which it was claimed Ferguson signed a check with "intent to defraud, with full knowledge there were not sufficient funds in the bank to meet it." He settled before the case was called to a hearing.

NEARLY WRECKED CHURCH.

Before that the former pastor and president of Pamona College almost wrecked the historic Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, in his management of the business affairs of the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, the pastor of the church. Dr. Hillis accused Ferguson of improperly acquiring $100,000 worth of collateral.

Ferguson checked out of the Hotel Bellevue February 26, without explanation or forwarding address, as far as is known. Since then a new set of officers has been elected by stockholders of the Greater Boston Mortgage Company, as follows:

A. A. Martel, president; Andrew Canavan, vice-president; J. Shea, secretary-treasurer; and Walter S. Varney and J. A. Southall, Jr., directors.

The sumptuous suite of offices of the company on the seventh floor of No. 10 Tremont street has dwindled to two rooms. There has been a considerable reduction in the personnel of the firm.

SALES OF STOCK STOPPED.

Further sales of stock in the company have been stopped pending the district attorney's investigation. It has been learned there were complaints about Ferguson's conduct of the company during the term of Joseph C. Pelletier as district attorney.

Ferguson's connection with Dr. Hillis ended in court in 1915 when the minister sued him for $70,000 which, it was alleged, Ferguson had improperly charged for "services and expenses." A referee held Ferguson owed Dr. Hillis $70,000, but the Supreme Cuort of New York set aside the report because Dr. Hillis did not take the stand.

Charges and counter charges were hurled between Ferguson and the pastor, who confessed to his congregation he had loved position too much and had cherished his own interests while he neglected "the sick, the poor, the friendless and the boys and girls of hungry minds."

It developed Ferguson had been a pastor himself, but had retired to become a real estate operator.

CHARGED $100,000.

It was stated Ferguson had charged nearly $100,000 for services and expenses during his four and one-half years' stewardship of Dr. Hillis' affairs, and for three years gave no accounting. Then Dr. Hillis appealed to trustees of Plymouth Church, who finally got a detailed statement from Ferguson, which was rejected by Dr. Hillis as incomplete and incorrect.

The speculations of Dr. Hillis involved the purchase of timber tracts on small margin. In many cases Hillis' notes were endorsed by Ferguson. Bonds issued by Ferguson in the case of a deal under the name of the Alberni Timber company were used as collateral.

BANDITS LED BY YOUNG BOY IN 2 HOLDUPS

A stripling whose cheeks have not yet been touched by a razor blade, directed a gang of robbers in two daring holdups, one in Jamaica Plain, the other in Cambridge.

The gang leader is sixteen or seventeen years old. Ten victims told the police of his flashing smile and nonchalant handling of an automatic revolver.

The holdups were staged in drug stores and the gang escaped with several hundred dollars in money and valuables. As they left the pharmacy of Samuel Kolow, at Pearl street and Putnam avenue, Cambridge, the boy desperado swaggered through the doors, jeering at the proprietor.

ESCAPES AMID SHOTS.

"Go ahead and shoot now!"

Then he swung behind the wheel of a stripped-down sport car, waited smilingly until his men were seated, started up the motor and drove away as Kolow poured a fusillade of bullets at the automobile. The number plates of the car were plastered with snow. The police of Greater Boston have only meagre descriptions of the gang.

The first robbery was in the drug store of Albert S. Pearlman, No. 650 Centre street, Jamaica Plain. The loot there amounted to more than $100.

RIFLE P. O. DRAWER.

Three men entered Pearlman's store and pointed revolvers at Max Saunders and Joseph Zarkin, clerks, and ordered two customers to make no move. One guarded the door. Another locked Saunders to the rear of the store, took $14 from him and asked him to open the safe. Saunders declared he did not know the combination. The third robbed the cash register of more than $100.

Less than a half hour later the trio appeared at the Cambridge drug store. Kolow, the proprietor, was robbed of a diamond ring, a diamond stickpin and $80 in cash. A sub-station postoffice till in the rear of the store was emptied of stamps and cash.

Saul Berkowitz, a clerk in the store, lost $5. Roy H. Buchanan, a customer in the store at the time, was relieved of $4 and $70 was taken from the cash register.

7 MEN RESCUED FROM DORY IN ICE FLOES

St. John's, N. F., March 7.—Huddled in a small open boat on the wind-swept waste of Newfoundland's off-shore ice pack, seven men of the British schooner A. R. Barteaux were sighted by the watch of the Norwegian steamship Hauk and were saved.

The Barteaux's crew was brought to this port by the rescue ship. Frozen hands and feet as the result of exposure, had reduced the men to helplessness. They are all under doctors' care here.

The rescue was affected more than a week ago. The men had taken to the ice when the schooner Barteaux was cut in two by an iceberg and sank. They put off from the ship in a dory. For three days and nights they fought the disheartening conditions of the Newfoundland ice floes. Without food and with insufficient clothing, the shipwrecked sailors battled to reach land. They navigated among the treacherous lanes caused by swirling ice cakes and hauled their small boat from cake to cake.

At night, articles of clothing were set on an oar and set afire as signals to passing ships. Vessels were sighted at times but their plight was unnoticed until the Hauk hove in the vicinity.

"HAMMER SLAYER" TRACED TO FRISCO

Clara Phillips

San Francisco, March 7.—Clara Phillips was positively identified from her picture as being the "mystery woman" who made a trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco on a lumber schooner three weeks after the "hammer slayer" escaped from the Los Angeles county jail, by a member of the crew of the schooner, according to Deputy Sheriff Dewar, here investigating what is termed as the best "lead" since she escaped December 5 last.

ATTACK ON MAN IN CASE

Lawyer Says Accusing Wife and Her Husband Were In "Cahoots" in Suit

New York, March 7.—"Pauline Lord, starring in "Anna Christie," is seeking vindication on the charge of being a "love pirate." Her attorney, Arthur F. Driscoll, filed a protest in the Supreme Court against the delay in the trial of Ruth Harris' divorce action against her husband, Mitchell Harris, theatrical manager and producer, in which Miss Lord was named as co-respondent.

Mr. Driscoll charged in his affidavit that Mr. and Mrs. Harris were "in cahoots" in the divorce suit. He said: "Miss Lord has received as much unfavorable criticism as she can receive and she is entitled to vindication."

BELIEVED HIM SINGLE.

Mr. Driscoll declared in his affidavit that there was no justification for the $50,000 suit against Miss Lord, that at the time when she met Mr. Harris she believed him to be a single man, and that if Mrs. Harris now has the "silly love letters" in her possession, she must have received them from her husband.

The lawyer gives as one reason for his charge that Mr. and Mrs. Harris are in "cahoots," that he has learned that Mr. Harris made no defence in the divorce action.

Miss Lord has denied that she is a "love pirate" but admitted authorship of the "love letters," saying they were merely innocent, impulsive notes.

HARRIS HER "DARLENE."

One of them read in part:

"Darlene:—I miss you, oh, so much. You think I should get used to being without you. And is you my tweedie? And did you lub me and how much? And 'ith you my darlene? And 'ith you my pie? And 'ith you nice? For my sake and your sake, destroy this. Love. PAULINE."

In another letter she wrote:

"The sea hath its pearls,
The Heaven hath its stars,
But my heart, my heart,
My heart hath its love."

This was the second instance in which Miss Lord had been cited as a "love pirate." In the previous case Mrs. Nellie Roche, wife of Billy Roche, the prize fight promoter and referee, brought suit against her for alienating her husband's affections and obtained a judgment of $5,148.

HURRY AND GET YOUR HANDY BAG BEFORE SUPPLY GIVES OUT

NEWSDEALER IN YOUR VICINITY HAS STOCK ON HAND

A comparatively simple article has done much within the past few weeks to emancipate the housewife.

The Handy Bag did the trick.

The old-fashioned shopping bag was bulky and unseemly. The paper shopping bag didn't last. The Handy Bag not only has a larger capacity, but it will last for years, and in appearance looks like an expensive purse.

This explains the terrific demand for them, and why gross lot after gross lot has been disposed of.

It takes only three of the coupons printed daily in the American (there's one in this issue) and 33 cents to get one of the Handy Bags. In order to obviate the necessity of a trip to the downtown office of the American, the Handy Bags have been distributed to newsdealers all over Greater Boston.

The newsdealer in your neighborhood has them, and it's up to you to get your bag before the supply is again exhausted.

Here's a list of the dealers where you can get them:

RAISE BIG FUND TO KILL R. I. 48-HOUR BILL

By CHARLES O. POWER

Providence, R. I., March 7.—It seems to be taken for granted by the State officials, the members of the General Assembly, the politicians, the labor leaders, the professional farmers and all who take a special interest in State politics that the Republican majority in the Senate has made up its mind not to permit the passage of any so-called progressive legislation at this session.

Governor Flynn

Governor William S. Flynn entertains not the faintest hope of having the pleasure of approving any measures that would make for the popular reforms he advocated in the last State campaign and because of which, a majority of the voters, usually Republican, elected him, a Democrat, to the highest office in the State.

20 BLOCK PROGRESS.

"At the election," says the Governor, "a majority of the voters said they wanted a forty-eight-hour law, the property qualification for voting abolished, a constitutional convention and the election of judges by the people instead of by the Legislature. I stood for those reforms and the voters favored me.

"Now twenty Republican Senators, representing only 9 per cent. of the people, can prevent the will of the majority from becoming effective without explanation or excuse.

"No better proof of this spirit of partisanship is needed than the attitude of the Republican Senators toward my appointment of a soldiers' welfare commission. My Republican predecessor named five Republicans to comprise the commission. It did excellent work in caring for unfortunate former soldiers.

CHEAP PARTISANSHIP.

"It was imperative that the work be continued without interruption, and one of my first acts was to reappoint all five Republican commissioners. Senator John J. McGrane of Providence, veteran himself, and well informed on problems of needy veterans, asked the Senate for immediate confirmation.

"He is a Democrat. That was too much for the Republicans. A Democratic Governor and a Democratic Senator had placed loyalty to the veterans above partisanship in favoring the retention of Republicans who had rendered good service. What happened? Republican Senators opposed confirmation and they barely got by. Only one or two Republicans joined with the eighteen Democrats in voting for them.

G. O. P. DENOUNCED.

Continuing the filibuster against the fact finding bill, Senator John H. Greene of Newport paid his respects to Senator Howard R. Peckham of Middletown and the committee on special legislation of which he is chairman. He charged that Peckham and his four Republican colleagues on this committee of seven did not intend to give the slightest consideration to a forty-eight-hour bill or other remedial

The committee majority intends to smother them and let them die in committee, said Senator Greene, and challenged Senator Peckham to deny it. Peckham only smiled.

BIG FUND CHARGED.

Senator Harry Sanderson of Johnston asked Senator Greene if he would answer a question and Greene replied he would not because he did not think Sanderson could ask a fair question or one that would contribute anything worth while to the discussion.

The House is expected to receive the 48-hour bill of Representative James Lavender of Bristol tomorrow and act upon it favorably without delay. It will go to the Senate a day or two later and be reposed in the morgue of the committee on special legislation to sleep beside the Powers bill.

Dr. Payson Smith Says American Fathers Are Poor Specimens

Springfield, March 7.—Dr. Payson Smith, State commissioner of education, spoke here at a meeting attended for the most part by mothers. "The average American father," Dr. Smith said, "is about the poorest thing from an educational point of view that the country has produced. He is interested in his child for the first five years, delights at his first tooth and his first steps, winds up his mechanical toys before his son gets a chance at them, and then practically ignores him." To this Dr. Smith attributed in part the thousands of misfits in the industrial world.

SOUTH END WIFE KNIFED IN FIGHT

Mrs. Bessie Lasko was badly beaten and slashed in a fight that followed when her husband, John, found her entertaining two men in their home at No. 73 Middlesex street, South End.

As far as the police could learn, Lasko attacked his wife's visitors, one of whom drew a knife, which he wielded freely. Mrs. Lasko then apparently joined in the combat.

One version has it that she allied herself with the visitors, whereupon Lasko is said to have turned upon her.

The uproar aroused the other tenants. Sight of the battling quartet in the Lasko tenement whetted their appetite for action. They declared themselves in. Neighbors, alarmed by the battle cries of the combatants, the thuds as blows connected and their recipients fell, together with the crash of breaking furniture, notified the police.

Mrs. Lasko lay unconscious on the floor when the police arrived. All the others had fled. The police say they were all intoxicated.

The woman was taken to the City Hospital, where she was found to be bruised and cut on the face, arms and neck. She was also said to have been intoxicated.

MAINE SETTLES FOR FIRE MANIAC SET

Bangor, Me., March 7.—The State treasurer paid the Austin W. Jones Co. $20,400 in final settlement of its claim for a fire on its dairy farm at Veazie. The fire was started by a maniac recently released on parole from the State Hospital, and a recent court decision established the liability of the State. The Legislature granted the company the right to sue.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The prompt relief is almost magical. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GERMANS PLAN GUERRILLA WARFARE

Dusseldorf, March 7.—The Ruhr is calm today, but the French assert that German students are organizing guerrilla bands.

On the other hand the population asserts that the attitude of the French soldiery is changing daily to more brutal treatment of civilians.

It is reported from Cologne that a compromise has been reached on the question of the railways passing through the British zone. The French made certain concessions over their original demands. General Godley has gone to London to consult the government.

Cuno's Defiance Rings Throughout Germany

Berlin, March 7 (By Associated Press).—Chancellor Cuno's declaration that Germany will hold out in the Ruhr and his intimation that no overtures will be made, "so long as the occupation renders it impossible for us to estimate our own capacity," rang through the Reich today as the people appraised their spokesman's address to the Reichstag.

Asserting that France had obtained nothing in all the weeks of the occupation, Herr Cuno scoffed at talk of negotiations so long as the situation remained as it is.

"We will agree to no settlement severing illegally occupied territory from Germany," he said, "or any agreement which fails to restore to freedom Germans wrongfully punished."

Recounting in detail the coercive steps taken in the Ruhr by the Allies, the chancellor declared that "however long the occupation may continue, the curse of barrenness will pursue the French."

French and British in Rhine Deadlock

London, March 7.—Reuter's Cologne correspondent says French and British representatives are still deadlocked over the question of moving French troops through the British zone.

General Sir Arthur Godley, commanding the British troops at Cologne, and General Payot, French chief of transportation in the occupied region, held two conferences on Monday, and, the correspondent says, General Godley flatly refused the French demands, whereupon General Payot said he would appeal to London.

The correspondent understands that the German railwaymen in the British zone are not only under orders to strike in case the French take over the railroads, but to inaugurate widespread sabotage.

AMUNDSEN TO HOP FOR POLE IN JUNE

Roald Amundsen.

Christiania, March 7. — Captain Roald Amundsen will start on his flight toward the North Pole from his Winter base, about the end of June, according to a message printed by the Nationen. Only a few minor details now remain to be attended to, according to the explorer, who expressed himself as being confident of accomplishing his journey without mishap. He expects to make notable contributions to polar science by the trip.

ONLY WOMAN IN CONGRESS A WET

Mrs. M. E. Nolan.

Washington, March 7.—Mrs. Mae E. Nolan, Representative of California, the only woman who will be a member of the new Congress, is a wet. She will fight for modification of the Volstead law and for control of alcoholic beverages by the government, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced.

TODAY

If any body of organized workmen, by a clever combination, had combined to steal two hundred and fifty millions from the people under false pretenses that body would be investigated PROMPTLY.

ONCE it is shown that a few individuals by manipulation can tax the public hundreds of millions a year in sugar, coal, gasoline or anything else, the government should regulate prices of such commodities.

We are supposed to dislike "taxation without representation." What else do we get?

AMATEUR DETECTIVE NABS THEFT SUSPECT

Milford, March 7.—Proprietor Harry E. Hunt did some detective work following the theft from the Central alleys of a valuable coat of Superintendent W. L. Adams of the trolley company, containing a large sum of money. He stopped a suspect, engaged him in conversation and then summoned the police. John Claughtery of Clinton was arrested, charged with drunkenness and larceny and the coat recovered.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes — pimples—a bilious look in your face — dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

Pawtucket, R. I., March 7.—Characterized as members of the "Pawtucket gang" a trio of men entered two restaurants here, pushed food from the tables, threw plates at the proprietors and then escaped after a hurry call for the police had been sent. The Bostonian and Apollo lunch rooms were visited.

WORCESTER COP QUITS UNDER FIRE

CLERGY ASK PARDON FOR COLORED DOCTOR

Worcester, March 7.—The Colored Ministers' Association of Boston has started a petition seeking pardon of Dr. Horace G. Miss Ralph Charges Millionaire Kirby Stopped $500 Monthly Allowance

New York, March 7.—John H. Kirby, lumber magnate, Republican national committeeman and clubman, who is reputed to be worth $10,000,000 was named as defendant today in a $5,000 suit filed in the county clerk's office by a woman who for several years had borne his name and traveled throughout the country with him as his daughter.

The plaintiff, Miss Olga Ralph, beautiful, highly educated and talented, who, during her association with the sixty-three-year-old millionaire, had enjoyed every luxury that money could procure, sues to recover ten months' back allowance which she claims is due her.

In her complaint it is set forth that shortly after she met Kirby in Chicago in April, 1918, he induced her to take his name. Thereafter she became known as a member of his family.

LIVED IN HIS HOME.

It was stipulated, according to the complaint, that Miss Kirby, who is now about twenty-eight, was to give her entire time and attention to Kirby, travel with him, be his secretary and companion, attend to all his social duties and give up all her other duties.

Kirby, who is a native of Houston, Tex., was married in 1883 to Miss Leslie Stewart, a Southern society girl, and they have one daughter, Mrs. James Schuyler Stewart. Recently he was made president of the Southern Tariff Association, and is also a member of the United States Brazilian Commission.

Whitneys to Spend Their Honeymoon in Italy, Betty Alden Hears

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE Bobby Pells, that newly-wedded pair making their home for the present in Paris, were there to see it. One of the most-talked of weddings of the year, and everything about it absolutely simple. Except the bride's gown—which was an optic-thrilling affair of satin and chiffon, embroidered in crystals and pearls. A creation of Jenny's.

It was the all-important ceremonial which transformed Miss Marie Norton into Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. In the morning there was a civil ceremony, followed by the church wedding in the afternoon. What a blow to the wedding fans among the English and American colonies of gay Paree!

Only about a score of guests were admitted—cards requested—to the church. And among them were the Bobby Pells, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Prince of Boston, and the Freddy Princes, Jr. (Elizabeth Harding). The latter, formerly Miss Elizabeth Harding, is the sister of Mrs. Pell. It was, in fact, last September, at the North Shore cottage of the Freddy Princes, Jr., that the wedding breakfast in honor of Bobby Pell and his petite bride was held. The ceremony itself was solemnized at St. John's Episcopal Church, Beverly Farms.

As for Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney he and his future helpmeet are spending their honeymoon in Italy. Just when they will return to New York seems to be more or less unknown.

MR. AND MRS. MacGREGOR JENKINS of Marlboro street have joined the Boston colony at Camden, S. C. They plan to remain for the month of March at the Hobkirk Inn.

THIS year there isn't any ball in aid of the South End Music School. Instead, the group of matrons interested in the school have planned a bridge day, for which a number of women are opening their homes today.

Mrs. Thomas Thacher, as well as Mrs. Whitman Ware, Mrs. Sewall Cabot and Miss Louisa T. Bazeley are among those who have made arrangements for the reservation of tables.

BULKELEY L. WELLS, formerly of Boston and now of New York, arrived recently at Hot Springs, Va., after passing part of the Winter in Florida. Mr. Wells, member of the Harvard '16 class, is the son of Mrs. Livermore Wells of Lime street, and the brother of Mrs. Lothrop M. Weld (Dorothy Wells) and Mrs. Henry Forbes Bigelow, Jr., (Barbara Wells). The latter came on to Boston from their home in Woodmere, L. I., in January, when Mr. Bigelow served as best man at the wedding of his brother, Edward L. Bigelow, and Miss Rose Fessenden.

Ever since Mr. Wells' arrival at Hot Springs he has been spending much of his time on the golf links there.

BLIZZARD DOOMS BEACHED LIGHTSHIP

Woods Hole, March 7.—Water was mounting today in the hold of relief lightship No. 50 which struck a rock and was beached on Nashawena Island as she was on her way from Nantucket South Shoals to New Bedford. The blizzard made work of salvage most difficult and the lightship is believed doomed. The coast guard cutter Gresham reported that the vessel was too badly damaged to be floated.

'DREAM BABY'S' MOTHER HAD NO LOVE FOR MATE

By JOHN T. BURKE
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

London, March 7.—Lady Ampthill was the star witness in the sensational divorce suit of her son, John Hugo Russell.

"I was one of the ladies-in-waiting to the Queen and presented my son's wife at court in 1919," Lady Ampthill testified.

"I knew that his wife left my son alone a good deal in 1920, and I noticed that in December of that year she was not wearing her wedding ring. She said that she had never lived with her husband as his wife and did not intend to do so."

DENIES EFFIMANACY.

Lady Ampthill then presented photographs of her son taken when he was a baby, and declared that she could not see any resemblance to Mrs. Russell's baby.

Resenting the implications conveyed in the charges that he was in the habit of dressing like a woman, the mother declared that he was fond of masquerading, and added:

"He is a fine athlete, wears No. 12 shoes, No. 10 gloves, is 6 feet 5 inches tall, and is fond of all manly sports, particularly football. Dressing up in women's clothes with him was merely a joke."

FRIEND WARNED HER.

Maud Acton, a school girl friend of Mrs. Russell, testified that the latter said to her:

"Do you remember how you warned me against going in taxis with men? You were right and I was wrong."

After the child was born Mrs. Russell cut the acquaintance of Miss Acton because the latter expressed her doubts as to the paternity of the baby.

Other witnesses were servants, who told of a "woman in black" seen in the apartment of Edgar Mayer, the corespondent, one of them identifying the woman as Mrs. Russell. This witness testified that she heard Mrs. Russell splashing in the water in Mayer's flat.

FITCHBURG ELOPERS TO BE MARRIED TODAY

Fitchburg, March 7.—Mrs. Alice Mitchell of No. 36 Kane street, mother of Constance Oulton, denied that trouble at home caused the sixteen-year-old girl to "elope" with Milton Walker of Still River, Mass.

The couple were arrested in Cleveland and were due to arrive in Fitchburg today. They were released upon their avowal to be married here and to start a home on the farm owned by Walker's father.

According to the story told the Cleveland police, by Constance, her mother and her step-father did not agree, and she left home with Walker when they left her alone in the house.

BROOKLINE MAN POLLS RECORD VOTE; DIES

Brookline citizens polled the biggest vote ever recorded for the offices of town treasurer and collector in electing a dead man.

The candidate, George H. Worthley, died of heart failure at his home, 12 St. Paul street, Brookline, just before the opening of the polls. He received 2,427 votes for treasurer and 2,368 votes for collector. Had he lived to serve this term he would have been town treasurer and town collector for thirty-nine consecutive years.

Mr. Worthley was eighty-three years old.

In a six-cornered fight for five places on the board of selectmen, the caucus nominees were elected. The successful candidates were G. Loring Briggs, 2,641 votes; Walter J. Cusick, 2,569; Judge Daniel A. Rollins, 2,448; Charles T. Rowley, 2,354, and Theodore G. Bremer, 2,341. Denis F. Bowen, who competed on nomination papers, received 1,441 votes.

Three thousand five hundred and forty-five votes were cast; 2,100 were polled by men and 1,445 by women. The town voted "no" on the license question by a plurality of 140 votes. More than 700 declined to vote on the question. The newly elected board of selectmen were to meet today to set a date for a special election to choose a successor to Mr. Worthley.

MOTHERS' BUREAU IN R. I. PROPOSED

Providence, March 7.—A bill which provides for the creation of a State Bureau of Mothers' Aid, to supervise the expenditure of $90,000 for the purpose of assisting mothers and their dependent children under fourteen years of age in their own homes is being considered by the finance committee of the House of Representatives. The bureau is to be composed of five women, one from each of the five counties of the State, the board to come under the Commissioner of Labor.

BURLESQUE GIRLS CITED IN DIVORCE

Worcester, March 7.—Gertrude L. Groezinger, wife of John D. Groezinger, former steward at the Turners' Club at Lake Quinsigamond, was granted a decree of divorce by Judge Forbes. She had testified her husband was in the habit of entertaining burlesque girls at their home and had habits of intoxication and cruelty.

OPPOSE PASSAGE OF BILL TO ENLARGE TERMINAL

Resolutions protesting against making Forest Hills a "dumping ground" for the Elevated, and against the passage of a bill now before the Legislature which would permit the "L" to enlarge the Forest Hills terminal and thus cause the eviction of nearly 500 families were adopted by over 1,000 indignant men and women residents of that district, at a mass meeting held in Minton Hall, Forest Hills.

Susan W. Fitz-Gerald.

If this bill is enacted the entire Forest Hills business district and neighboring residential section, containing more than 250 two and three-family houses, would be wiped out. The property in the area which it is proposed shall be taken over by the Elevated is valued at $2,000,000.

Charles A. Murphy.

Representative Susan W. FitzGerald, woman member of the Legislature, City Councillor Moriarty, Representative George Penchen of West Roxbury, Frederick J. Kneeland of the Public Service Commission and Christopher C. Mitchell were among the speakers. Charles A. Murphy, chairman of the citizens' committee presided.

"With the shortage of building in Boston now not even one building should be torn down," declared Councillor Moriarty.

C. C. Mitchell.

"I oppose this bill," declared Representative Susan B. FitzGerald," because I believe the sponsors of the bill, the West Roxbury Civic Association, should not have introduced it before having the co-operation and advice of the local people concerned in the matter."

"There is adequate space in the present terminal, but it is not used," declared Fred J. Kneeland. "The Elevated has the facilities."

"A bed for everyone in Forest Hills" should be the slogan of Forest Hills residents, declared Attorney Mitchell.

Arrangements have been made for a hearing on the bill Thursday at the State House, and it is expected hundreds will attend.

Among the other speakers were: Rev. Fr. William J. Casey, William J. Breslin, James Riley, Leon J. Conway, James A. Brady and Joseph Delaney, who declared that if the Elevated does want to expand it should build a subway.

SOFT COAL ORDERS LIGHT THIS YEAR

Washington, March 7 (By International News Service).—In the face of an acute fuel shortage in New York and New England, the National Coal Association declared today that the demand for bituminous coal this Winter has been so relatively light that little difficulty has been experienced by the operators in meeting the nation's needs.

Any shortages that have occurred the association blamed on transportation difficulties. No mention was made of the New York-New England situation in the report on soft coal situation.

The association explained that industry generally has not made the call for bituminous coal which has marked more active years.

BOSTON POLICE QUALIFY AS SWIMMERS

"Stop thief. There he goes into the river. Oh, heavens, he will escape."

Say not so, madam. For a Boston "copper" is on the watery trail. Such a thing as a little river or even the harbor will mean nothing in the life of "Boston's Finest" when their intensive training in the aquatic line is completed.

In other words, Hub bluecoats are emulating Toth, Richards and the rest, and the crook who thinks that he will be able to escape arrest by jumping into a stream of water is doomed to the "out of luck" class.

Under the direction of Jack Manning of the Massachusetts Humane Society and his assistant, Bob Muir, daily lessons for the Boston officers are conducted at the Y. M. C. A. tank. Commissioner Wilson decreed that his men should qualify in swimming. So the guardians of the law are reverting to their boyhood days.

RUG KING WOOS AND WINS BRIDE IN 24 HOURS

A Western man met an Eastern girl and in twenty-four hours the twain decided to be one.

Consequently, on Saturday, in the Hotel Westminster, Garabed L. Najarian, California rug importer, will take as his bride Miss Siranoos T. Demirjian of Brooklyn.

They will have been acquainted just eleven days. Less than twelve years ago Najarian walked across Boston Common with a $5 bill between him and poverty. Today he is reputed to be the wealthiest rug dealer west of the Mississippi.

The couple met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tertzag in Somerville. Najarian was making a brief visit with the Tertzags prior to leaving for New York to meet a rug cargo coming by water. His bride-to-be was planning departure the next day for her home in Brooklyn.

Najarian didn't meet the ship. Miss Demirjian didn't reach the train she planned to board. She is preparing her trousseau and he is arranging a year's honeymoon.

PRES. HARDING PLANS FOR DAY ON GOLF LINKS

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 7.—More leisurely cruising down Florida's coast inland waterway and another round of golf were contemplated by President Harding today as he began the second day of his vacation in the Palmetto State.

The course over which the golfer game would be played was undecided today, according to advices from the "Pioneer," the houseboat on which the President and Mrs. Harding are taking the cruise.

The plans called for a game at one of two or three places, depending on the speed of the houseboat which cast off here yesterday after the President had a game over the Ormond Beach course. New Smyrna twenty miles south of here, seemed to be the most likely place.

The relaxation, not to mention the recreation he has been able to obtain since leaving Washington already has helped the President, members of the vacation party say.

Despite the long railroad trip the visit to this land of perpetual Summer also has been of some benefit to Mrs. Harding, who is gradually regaining her former strength.

WOMAN AND MAN HELD IN LIQUOR SEIZURE

Eleven gallons of whiskey in seven cans, valued at $176, were seized by Sergeant Magner and Patrolman Clifford McGee of the City Square police station in a touring car on Chelsea street, Charlestown, and the occupants of the car, Louis Halzel, thirty-five years old, of No. 1 Winslow street, Everett, and Bessie Klayman, thirty-eight, a dressmaker, of No. 484 Ferry street, Everett, were arrested on the charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale. An additional charge of operating an automobile without a certificate of registration was placed against Halzel. In Charlestown court their cases were continued until Saturday.

WEST END GIRL GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE MOTHER

The heroism of Matilda Leavitt, nineteen years old, in giving her blood for transfusion to the veins of her mother is believed to have saved the life of Mrs Sarah Leavitt. They live at No. 90 Myrtle street, West End.

Mrs. Leavitt's chance for recovery, even with a blood transfusion, were estimated at one in a hundred at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Much depended on the quality of the blood transfused. That of the woman's daughter was perfect for the occasion. The operation was performed and Mrs. Leavitt is on the road to health, it is said.

Matilda is employed by the Industrial Accident Board as a court stenographer. She is a student at the Portia Law School, and is in her third year at that institution.

OLD MADE YOUNG BY RENEWING BLOOD, CLAIMS PARIS EXPERT

ANNOUNCES RESULT OF TESTS

Rejuvenation, Besides Cure of Many Diseases, Accomplished by Transfusion

By BASIL D. WOON,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Special Wireless to Universal Service.

Paris, March 7.—Ponce de Leon, Faust and Dr. Serge Varonoff have a new rival in the person of Dr. Henri Jaworsky, eminent Parisian nerve specialist who, as a result of long experiments, announces that the old can be made young by renewing their blood.

Like Dr. Voronoff, Dr. Jaworsky says that he only gave his discovery to the press when the faculty of medicine refused him a hearing.

CONVINCED OF CURE.

"After experimenting with animals and humans I am convinced that rejuvenation, besides the curing of many diseases, is practicable by the transfusion of healthy blood to the veins of old or diseased persons," said Dr. Jaworsky.

"I admit that I cannot scientifically explain the marvelous results I have obtained, but I suppose the injected blood works on the nervous centres and internal glands, renewing tissues with extraordinary rapidity.

BLOOD FROM BIRDS.

"Thus Dr. Carrel, to maintain flesh tissues alive independently, was obliged to constantly inject fresh blood. It was this fact which influenced my researches. Though I am still experimenting, the results are such as to convince me that we are on the threshold of discoveries of the highest importance."

Dr. Jaworsky says he has proved that he can cure pulmonary congestion by injecting fresh blood from birds. He says the same treatment gives favorable results in tuberculosis, and explains that the elements making up a bird's pulmonary tract are the same as in man.

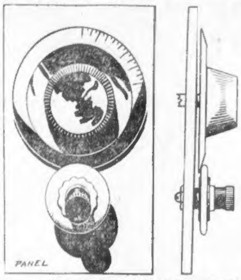
CLEVER ATTACHMENT MADE OF ERASER



Eleven cents provides vernier device for dials, a radio wrinkle contributed by a Gloucester fan in "pick you prize" contest. A common disk rubber eraser is mounted on the binding post and gives Satisfactory service.

DIAGRAM OF RADIO WRINKLE

A clever eleven-cent vernier attachment for dials. A common disk rubber eraser is mounted on a binding post, and the whole thing mounted on the outside of the panel together with a washer so that the eraser may be turned freely by the knob of the binding post. The device is arranged so that the eraser presses lightly against the bevel of the dial, the latter being adjusted by loosening the set-screw. Turning the eraser moves the dial slowly. Sent in by A. U. S. AGENTS ARE ACCUSED IN BIG LIQUOR PLOT

New York, March 7.—Details of an international conspiracy, in which government agents are alleged to have acted in collusion with officers of a big Kentucky distillery in exporting into Canada thousands of gallons of American-made rye whiskey, later to be smuggled into the United States, will be laid before government officials in Washington by John Holly Clark, Jr., assistant United States attorney.

Government operatives charge that Kentucky rye whiskey with a bootleg valuation of $1,500,000 was sent over the border last January and now is being smuggled back. They refused to discuss details of the plot, but Mr. Clark admitted he was "working on something amazingly big."

The bootleg curb quotes rye whiskey at $95 a case, while Scotch is offered for as low as $60.

WESTFIELD DOGS KILL MANY DEER

SAVING HEIRESS RUINS HERO OF LAWRENCE

Lawrence, March 7.—The reward given him by a New York society heiress for saving her life in the Titanic disaster, caused his downfall, Patrick Burns told Chief of Police Barry.

An effort was made today to free Burns from a sentence at the State Farm, where he was ordered by Judge Wilbur Rowell. Burns' record of many court appearances for intoxication had much to do with the judge's decision to send him away.

KEPT GIRL AFLOAT.

Burns was one of the steerage passengers in the floating palace Titanic, which met disaster on her maiden trip.

When the ship hit an iceberg, Burns grabbed a life preserver and jumped.

Struggling in the water he answered the cries of the New York girl and held her afloat until both were picked up by the rescue ship Carpathia.

BECAME DRINKER.

They had been in the water 36 hours. Relatives of the girl bestowed $5,000 on Burns. The money went to his head, he said. He became a liquor addict.

The $5,000 dwindled to nothing and the little hoard which Burns had laid by for his trip to America was spent. Burns is now forty-four years old. He declares he is much worse off than when he left Europe to seek fame and fortune in America.

He blames the generous reward.

$5,000,000 PAID FOR DUKE BY VANDERBILT

MARLBORO AND HIS WIVES

Duke and present Duchess of Marlboro. She was formerly Gladys Deacon of Boston. (Photo by Underwood & Underwood.) In inset is Consuelo Vanderbilt, first wife of the Duke for whom her father William K. Vanderbilt "paid" $5,000,000.

Gladys Deacon's duke was worth just $5,000,000 to Consuelo Vanderbilt, his first wife.

William K. Vanderbilt paid him that amount to make Consuelo a duchess back in 1895.

The duke's price is revealed today in an agreement among executors of the Vanderbilt estate and the authorities of [illegible] as to the [illegible] of [illegible].

The dower payment part of the $5,000,000 dowry is revealed in a paragraph telling $2,500,000 [illegible]

"Due to the trustees under settlement to the Duke of Marlborough with Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt."

W. K. Vanderbilt was [illegible] over his daughter's [illegible] he not only settled the $5,000,000 on Marlborough, or the latter's trustees, but he also built the famous Sunderland House in London for the couple at a cost of nearly a million dollars.

In November, 1920, the Duchess obtained a divorce on charges of desertion and misconduct by the Duke. The Duke married Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston June 24, 1921, at Paris, after reports of their engagement repeatedly were denied. It was declared a love marriage. In so far as known to Boston friends of Miss Deacon no millions passed to the Duke at the wedding.

NEWSPAPER CHEAPEST FORM OF ADVERTISING

Newspaper advertising is the cheapest and most effective of any of the various forms of publicity in use today, according to William H. McLeod, advertising manager of the William Filene's Sons Company. In his address before the Pilgrim Publicity Association's class in advertising, at the Hotel Bellevue, Mr. McLeod said that mail advertising cost 15 times as much as newspaper display, and that the latter was far superior to billboards and theatre programs.

AUTO GAS KILLS MARLBORO MAN

CABOT MEETING ASKS LIBERTY FOR I. W. W.

The story of James Manning, I. W. W. organizer, recently released from Leavenworth prison, had such an effect on some 200 members of patrician Boston and Cambridge families that a nearly unanimous vote was passed to urge President Harding to free fifty-one political prisoners still doing time in the Federal prison.

Only four dissenters opposed making this plea to the President.

The meeting was held in the Brattle street home of Dr. Richard C. Cabot, Harvard professor of special ethics. The attendance was recruited entirely by personal letters sent out by Dr. and Mrs. Cabot.

Manning was the chief speaker. He told of his arrest in Seattle, his trial in Chicago (while a band played patriotic airs on the courthouse steps) and his experience at Leavenworth. He said he worked on a rockpile for three years and a half.

Dr. Cabot introduced Manning. He declared that he had called the meeting in "behalf of free speech." He said that he and Manning knew little about each other, but they were interested in the same cause, namely, the granting of an amnesty to fifty-one political prisoners in the Federal prison.

MAD DOG ATTACKS WOMAN IN SAUGUS

Mrs. Isabel Lysette.

Bitten by a mad dog when she attempted to feed him, Mrs. Isabel Lysette, prominent Saugus woman of No. 166 Central street, entered the Lynn Hospital for the Pasteur treatment. She will be confined to the hospital for several days. An examination of the dog's head, which was sent to the Harvard Medical College, showed that the canine was suffering with "rabies." Chief of Police Roland E. Mansfield has warned all dog owners of Saugus that dogs must be muzzled for ninety days or restrained.

FUGITIVE GOES BACK IN IRONS

Montana Man Who Surrenders Here Starts Home With Oregon Boot on His Leg

Being a fugitive from justice began to wear on Mason Doughty, and today he is on his way back to the Montana State Penitentiary, with an Oregon boot on his left foot and Traveling Guard R. B. Hughes for escort.

Doughty, a young husky of eighteen, was serving a term of from one to two years in the western pen, for stealing an automobile. He escaped after serving four months of his term, went to Maine, joined the army, tired of the discipline and decided that it would be better for him to finish his term than to wander about with the eternal fear of being caught. He gave himself up at police headquarters and wired to the warden that he was ready to surrender himself.

GIVES HIMSELF UP.

Traveling Guard Hughes, with a voluminous walrus moustache, a twelve-inch blue-black Colt's and the Oregon boot in a neat leather container, appeared at headquarters today. He explained that he would have to clap the iron on, not because he suspected Doughty would attempt to escape, but to abide by a regulation of the prison that all escaped convicts be brought back that way.

The Oregon boot is a device whereby any attempt on the part of the person wearing one to run away results in a broken or mangled ankle. It fastens on to the ankle and has a fifteen-pound weight attached.

"The prison in Montana will look like paradise to me," Doughty said as he was leaving with Hughes "after a night spent in the Boston jail. I couldn't sleep a wink all night, for the vermin and dirt of the place."

DEAD FROM GAS FOR SIX DAYS IN ROOM

The body of a South End man, killed by gas as he lay asleep in his room, remained nearly a week before it was discovered. He was Joseph Laconi, twenty-six years old, of No. 396 Harrison avenue, South End. The landlord decided to investigate only after Laconi failed to appear for six days. Medical Examiner Leary declared death due to accidental gas poisoning. Mrs. Annie Laconi, wife of the dead man, lives at 331 Harrison avenue.

RUSTY HANDCUFFS PROVE [illegible]ING GOOD

Orange, March 7.—When one of the police force in Erving had occasion to arrest an alleged inebriate at a local "knicker dance," the town handcuffs were clicked shut and failed to open. They were rusty. The natives give this proof proudly that Erving is a "good, straight little town." A locksmith finally released the prisoner.

SO. BOSTON FAMILY HOMELESS BY FIRE

A fire of unknown origin in a wooden dwelling at No. 125 Dresser street, South Boston, caused damage estimated at $500. The blaze started in the tenement on the first story, occupied by Mrs. Mary McDonald and her family, who were made homeless by the fire. The house was owned by Dr. James Manary of Broadway, South Boston.

Wedding Ends Stage Career of New Mrs. Vanderbilt

Newport, March 7.—It is revealed today that the new Mrs. Reggie C. Vanderbilt, who was Gloria Morgan, eighteen-year-old daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, consul-general at Brussels, was embarking on a stage career when her marriage to Vanderbilt changed her plans.

In motion pictures made abroad Miss Morgan had played small roles, and she made her American debut under the name of Gloria Rochelle, in the Cosmopolitan production "The Young Diana," in which Marion Davies was starred.

The Vanderbilts have arrived at Sandy Point Farm, the Vanderbilt estate near here, where they will remain until Friday. They left New York immediately after their wedding.

SCORES BEATEN 36 ARRESTS, IN STUDENT RIOT

New York, March 7.—Thirty-six Columbia University students were arrested, scores more were bailed, beaten and police were called to quell student riots in elevated and subway stations and elsewhere in the vicinity of Herald square, when sophomores sought to prevent the holding of the freshman annual banquet at Hotel McAlpin.

Clifford McAvoy, son of Supreme Court Justice McAvoy, was among those arrested. All were released after a stern warning from Magistrate McAndrews in the Night Court.

Sophomores met the freshmen as they appeared in the vicinity of the McAlpine. Soon the area surrounding the hotel was the scene of fist fights. As freshmen were overcome they were taken off to imprisonment in taxicabs.

Detectives rescued many freshmen from imprisonment in a junk shop. Others were found in apartment house cellars, where their shouts had startled the tenants who called in the police.

SOMERVILLE CALLS 'L' SERVICE HEARING

Robert C. Harris

A public hearing will be held by the Somerville Board of Aldermen this evening at City Hall on the street car service furnished by the Boston Elevated Railway Company in that city, which Alderman Albert E. Hughes recently characterized as abominable and a disgrace. The order was offered by Alderman Robert C. Harris and unanimously adopted. Many leading residents bitterly protest what they term inadequate facilities, and are particularly opposed to the present Lechmere square terminal. Representatives of the various civic organizations and other associations in the city will attend the meeting.

LIE EXPERT EXPOSED BY CLERK

Bookkeeper Confessed $170,000 Falsification at Marston's Direction

By HARRY A. BENWELL.

William Moulton Marston, Jr., inventor of the "lie detector," now under arrest in Washington, blamed a bookkeeper for a shortage of about $170,000 of which he is accused, it was learned today.

W. M. Marston, Jr.

The inventor, a Harvard graduate and member of a prominent family, then disappeared, leaving behind him his wife and blind father. The bookkeeper, now dead, refused to be made a "goat," confessed he had falsified the books of the United Dress Goods Inc., of Boston, on instructions from Marston, the treasurer.

This was brought out in an independent investigation financed by creditors and handled by their attorney, Louis B. King, of the law firm of Friedman, Atherton & King of No. 30 State street.

HEARING NEXT WEEK.

The results of this investigation were turned over to the Federal authorities, who obtained indictments against Marston charging him with aiding and abetting in concealing the assets of a corporation in bankruptcy proceedings and in using the mails in a scheme to defraud, by sending out false financial statements.

Marston had previously offered to return and be examined in the bankruptcy proceedings, providing he was paid for his time and expenses. Inasmuch as such testimony would have rendered him practically immune from prosecution, his offer was refused, and his arrest followed. He will be brought back to Boston for trial after a hearing in Washington on March 16.

WIFE IS ALSO LAWYER.

William Moulton Marston, Jr., took a course in psychology at the Harvard Graduate School in 1921, after having graduated from Harvard University in 1915 and Harvard Law School in 1918. Marston was deep in the fascinating study of psychology when a serious shortage in the accounts of the United Dress Goods, Inc., was revealed. The inventor, whose machine for detecting lies was creating something in the nature of a furore, was at that time treasurer of the company, which his father had conducted with honor for years.

The elder Marston, becoming practically blind, the management of the financial end of the company devolved on the son. A place of business was maintained at No. [illegible] Chauncy street, with a business office on State street, which young Marston and his wife, both lawyers, also used as a law office.

On August 1, 1921, the financial statement of United Dress Goods, Inc., revealed a surplus of $51,000. One month later the company was insolvent, with a deficit of $116,000.

Astounded creditors called for explanations from Treasurer Marston, but he waved them away with the statement that the bookkeeper was to blame. The creditors refused to accept this explanation, and a few months later the company was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy. The liabilities were over $100,000 and assets less than $10,000.

BOSTON BEAUTY QUEEN IS CHRISTY MODEL

CHARLOTTE TROWBRIDGE

Winner of Boston American's loveliest girl contest last Summer is now posing for Howard Chandler Christy and Willy Pogany in New York City, where she resides with her mother on Riverside Drive.

She writes that she is working hard to rise to the top in her work.

Miss Trowbridge is a native of Winthrop and as the 'loveliest girl' was awarded a trip to Atlantic City. There she attracted the attention of Christy.

RUSSIA NEEDS CASH, NOT FOOD SAYS HASKELL

Moscow, March 7 (By the Associated Press).—Russia needs money or credit to rehabilitate her industries, not more famine aid, Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the American Relief Administration, has informed Secretary Hoover.

Before dispatching the message Colonel Haskell conferred with Leo Kameneff, the third vice-president who is said to have concurred in all the details.

Colonel Haskell pointed out to Mr. Hoover that the present relations of the Relief Administration with the Russian government appear satisfactory and that ample assistance is at hand to care for all famine sufferers until the harvest, which promises to be good.

What Russia needs, Colonel Haskell said, is credit or money to rehabilitate her transportation and agriculture and to fight the plant pests. The colonel asserted that the Soviet government's plan to export grain was a forward step.

NOYES READY TO EXPLAIN DEAL ON CITY HALL

His part in the purchase by the City of Everett of the City Hall property in 1918 can be fully explained to the satisfaction of all, declared Frank V. Noyes, prominent Charlestown real estate dealer, who acted as agent in the deal.

"I am ready, willing and anxious to appear before the proper tribunal and explain my actions in the deal and my connection with it," Noyes said. The Everett city council recommended that the district attorney investigate the transaction, in which, it was alleged, $16,703 was not accounted for.

Aged Woman Dies

Foxboro, March 7.—Mrs. [illegible] Brooks, ninety-four years old, the oldest woman in this town, died at the home of Almon W. Pickering in North Main street. She was born in North Wheaton and was a graduate of Wheaton College. She taught school for twenty years.

PLAN WAR BY SEA ON 'RUNNERS'

Appleby Would Arm Craft to Fight Bootleg Ships Along the Coast

War by sea on rum-runners of the North Atlantic was declared by John D. Appleby, new prohibition zone chief for New England.

J. D. Appleby

He will recommend to the Prohibition Unit in Washington that a fleet of auxiliary fishing schooners be assigned to New England as a battle flotilla. The eagle boat or sub-chaser type is not favored by Appleby. He wants staunch seagoing schooners to meet the rum-runners on their own terms.

WOULD ARM VESSELS.

Much of the smuggling along the coast of Massachusetts and Maine is done by fishing schooners, the dry chief declares. Whereas a sub-chaser could be detected from afar, an armored schooner could get within range of a rum-runner without detection, he says.

A conference between Prohibition Chief Appleby and Collector of the Port Wilfred W. Lufkin has been held regarding the proposition of a "dry navy" in these waters. Mr. Lufkin has guaranteed his co-operation, it is understood.

If Massachusetts fails to adopt a convenient prohibition enforcement act it will be dubbed a "coward State," according to Wayne B. Wheeler, chief counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, who addressed a dinner and get-together of the Economic Club at the City Club. There, "wets" and "drys" had it out.

He argued that the 18th Amendment had been accepted because an overwhelming majority of the population favored it.

Colonel Ransom H. Gillett, counsel of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was also a speaker.

"I can enforce prohibition if you really want it enforced," he declared. "Give me men enough, give me a law carrying the death penalty and judges who will impose it and we shall free the world from alcoholism and its population at the same time."

Harold D. Wilson, former prohibition enforcement officer, and Alexander Whiteside, counsel for the Constitutional Liberty League, made brief speeches. Mr. Whiteside predicted the death of the prohibition amendment within twenty years. He declared that the sentiment of the people as a whole was greatly against the measure.

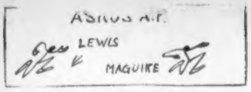
Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, also was heard from.

"All this talk about prohibition being a joy killer is absolute nonsense," he said.

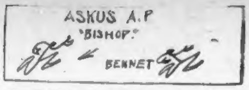
BOOM BENTON AS FUTURE GOVERNOR

Jay R. Benton.

Attorney General Jay R. Benton was boomed as "the next Governor of Massachusetts after Lieutenant-Governor Fuller" by Mayor Wilfred D. Gray of Woburn at a testimonial dinner given him by 150 members of the class of 1911 of Boston University Law School. Various speakers paid tribute to Mr. Benton, who is one of the youngest attorney generals in history. John J. Higgins of Lawrence was toastmaster.



BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS



FARRELL SHINING EXAMPLE TO ALL YOUNG BRAVES AT CAMP

COACH WORKS HARD AND LATE WITH ROOKIES

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7.—Ol' Ponce De Leon should have discovered St. Petersburg when he made his invasion of Florida seeking a sanitarium or something like that. Rejuvenation is in the air down here, and the present slim Braves' squad had a very shining example, to wit, Duke Farrel.

This bird was catching back in the days when the boys wore the iron hats and the moustaches and the side whiskers. He is so old that he wouldn't dare to disclose the exact figures for fear that some kind of a commission might invalidate his contract to be mixed up in any kind of active athletics.

He isn't what you would call thin, either, being built along the lines of the gentleman so frequently sketched by Tom Powers to represent the trusts. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, the ol' boy has taken to cavorting about the diamond here with all the friskiness of the youngest kid.

Apparently it means nothing, in his, what you might call, young life that a torrid sun beats down, that the temperature is well up in the eighties, and that fatigue should quickly follow any undue exertion.

He gets behind the bat to show the pitchers where he wants the ball chucked. He ambles to the mound to give them tips on motions. He hops over to first base to watch 'em work from there. He's first out and last in at the practice sessions.

Even That Does Not Satisfy the Genial Duke

Even that doesn't satisfy the venerable backstop, for now he is organizing an infield that has a practice session of its own after the youthful athletes have gone to the showers. The Duke has himself stuck in at shortstop and despite his generous paunch, digs 'em out of the dirt with just as much skill and eclat as a school boy. He'd stick around until the sunset, if the rest of his gang didn't walk out on him.

Duke knows a lot about the battery end of the game and has a peach of a disposition with the youngsters. He's happy as a lark all the time and apparently is ready and anxious to act as a baseball father to each kid present. We haven't the slightest doubt that he'll be sadly grief stricken as soon as the invasion of the regulars causes a sudden epidemic of infant pitching mortality.

Coaching Pitchers Is a Real Serious Proposition

Coaching pitchers is a really serious proposition. They, the young men, cannot seem to learn some of the tricks no matter how hard and often they are schooled. Dick Rudolph, one of brainiest pitchers of all time, naturally knows all the angles of the intricate stuff that helps a pitcher. And Dick is a natural teacher, too!

It is a sight for sore eyes to watch him direct some awkward young man endeavoring to throw to second base without spiking the back of his own neck. But the lessons don't stick under fire. A pitcher will practice and practice to overcome weakness and apparently have it licked. But let him get into a real hard ball game and there it is again, back in all its fatal glory.

Mitchell's idea is that if the school sessions can be held often enough, doing the right thing will become the natural habit. And that's why the young birds were all brought down here so early.

Nobody Has Been Allowed to Put Anything on the Ball

Nobody has been allowed to put anything on the ball yet, and the ambitious youths haven't even had any batting practice, apart from bunting, which is merely a means of taking off superfluous poundage.

The arms will be ready for the gang next week, and after six days of workouts here, there will not be any sore wings as a result of the first curves. The present bunch will be allowed to start their batting Friday, as a sort of a reward for this week's hard work.

Mickey O'Neil, the newest arrival, melted quite naturally into his first practice, and the same young man is evidently out to have a good year for himself. He wasn't what you could call any too careful the past couple of seasons. Being extremely young, that was natural enough.

Life Is Now a Serious Proposition to Him

But he has changed. Life is a serious proposition to him. He has invested in a business in the first place and has learned that money has other advantages than being a mere medium for the purchase of excitement.

Then again, he has heard it remarked that he wasn't as good as his first season in the large show led the world to believe and that little matter has got under his skin. So he is out to show the universe, though he doesn't say so in as many words.

Mickey worked all last Winter in a department store in his home town, St. Louis, and in addition, he purchased a third interest in a drug store, which took up his attention evenings. So he had no chance to frivol. And now he doesn't want to. Which is a good thing for himself and the club. When Mickey is right, there are few better catchers.

No Word Has Been Received From Gibson

All of which recalls that no word has been received at camp from Frank Gibson, the third catcher, who is undoubtedly holding out. Frank can get as much money in the Texas League, we imagine, as his Brave contract last year called for, and he would be playing at home, which would cut down his expenses greatly.

It being the sensible Brave policy to say nothing about contracts, or holdouts, this, of course, is supposition on our part.

It may be that the railroads down Frank's way resemble the well-known N. H. In that case, he is likely to be late for the opening of the season.

LAWLOR BALKS WITH TIPLITZ OVERWEIGHT

Joe Tiplitz and Jack Lawlor didn't fight for the Armory A. A. as was announced exclusively in yesterday's Boston American Sporting Extra.

It appeared that when the match was made that Lawlor had an agreement that Tiplitz would not weigh more than 135 pounds. When the boys weighed in at 3 o'clock, Tiplitz was one pound overweight, while Lawlor was at 128 pounds.

Matchmaker Alex McLean of the Armory Club used all of his oratorical ability in an effort to get Lawlor, who usually does not hesitate to battle a welterweight, to enter the ring with Tiplitz. This he refused to do. As there was not a suitable substitute in this sector of the land of prescription hunters, the show was called off.

The fans who hold pasteboards, the Armory Club announced, may have tickets for the next show or their jack back.

WILSON HOLDS ALL CHAMPIONSHIPS

T. J. Wilson of England and Carford, who won the five-mile British amateur rolling skating championship at Holland Park rink recently in 16 minutes and 45 seconds, now holds all championships for the year in England, already having won the half-mile Southern Counties championship and the one-mile British amateur championship.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7.—This pleasant and comfortable city would be a wonderful place for office boys. They have benches all along the main stems. The citizens and the invaders park themselves thereon and go to it. They settle everything, as is fit and proper for those on the bench. The tired business man gets his rest on the benches. The chickens take their new and Summery scenery and display it there. The Lotharios walk along the line and take their pick—if they can make the grade.

They told us that it was perfectly proper to speak to anybody on the benches. We picked out a very swell number. Everything was perfectly proper. She never even looked at us. That settled it. The dignity of the bench as you say, is more than upheld in St. Pete.

Little things like the League of Nations and prohibition are settled a hundred times a day. The Braves won so many games on these benches last Spring that they had to finish last place to keep up the well known law of averages.

The tourist husband finds the settees a wonderful place to park the bundles that the wife collects while shooting the Winter profits.

The bird who trembles after an assault on the Cuban importations can rest in the sunshine to get rid of the moonshine. The benches are free which is a wonderful thing in any tourist resort. When we return we'll try to put through the idea on Tremont street. The boys get up early and grabbed the places, wouldn't be bothered by the crowds or cops while looking 'em over.

EVEN the trouble in Europe has its bright side. Hennery Gowdy, the Brave catcher has a correspondent in Germany, a youngster he befriended while over there, who writes that life has been tough, but is brightening up because there's going to be another war and that will bring Hank back.

THE Summer sun, the swaying palms, Florida frenzy, the rippling gulf, the ice cream suits, the golf course and a lot of those things give us a giggle every time we see 'em and then think of the more or less desperate Winter we buried in before fate, aided by the W.K. railroads, escorted us hither. We are easily amused, but we can't help that. We can now see how simply one might decide that there wasn't any coal shortage. We haven't felt the least bit chilly in three days. That shiver stuff is all psychological, as one of our prominent citizens remarked. 'Twould be a very soft proposition writing rhymes and things from this torrid corner of the universe, one could just sit at his veranda typewriter and unfurl spasms like the following, ad lib:

THE sun shines on the coral strand,
The warm breeze whispers soft,
The langorous day is pleasant,
The lazy night is also;
But somehow we feel the longing,
The urge for change of scenery,
For Winter's snow and glory.
We do; I do not think.

DRY NEWS

WE are now in the driest country in the world, meteorologically speaking.

DON'T SHOOT SAH!!

* * *

It never does rain here, according to the world's best collectors, the natives who take it away from the tourists.

* * *

One Northern merchant opened a store and put an umbrella in his show window and was immediately put away by the State Lunatic Commission.

* * *

There's only one cemetery in the town, where they buried the dozen citizens who happened to be on the street.

* * *

This evening a waterpipe burst on the roof of the big hotel. They thought it was a shower and the shock killed 'em.

* * *

That's how the story goes.

* * *

The local papers offer to give away editions on days that the sun doesn't shine. When you find a paper giving anything away there's a catch in it somewhere.

RING THE BELL

Usually Dedicated to the Day's Best Offering.

WE take this opportunity of reminding our readers that they can win a baseball pass by making this spot. The best spasm run this month will get the pasteboards. Either league. In case of a tie we'll give two passes. Nothing could be fairer. There's no qualification. We're the judge. Go to it. The more you ring the less we have to do.

WANTA BASEBALL PASS? HERE'S HOW TO GET IT!

LIFE'S a funny proposition. If you can see the fun in it, you can win yourself a baseball pass for the 1923 season.

"TRY TO RING THE BELL"

We will give the writer of the best contribution for the month of March a pass to either of the ball parks. Vote early and often. Tha's all. It's up to you.

Y WILL HOLD A BIG ATHLETIC EXHIBITION

In place of the annual public circus, the Boston Y. M. C. A. will stage a big athletic exhibition at the Huntington avenue branch on March 16.

Business men, senior members and boys will participate in a free arm drill and maze run. Frank Caswell will give an iron dumbbell drill. The Boys' Club, under direction of R. W. Tapp, will present a flag drill. John Sinnett will direct a gymnastic Spanish waltz dance.

A gymnastic exhibition will be a prominent feature of the program. The Leaders' Corps, a group of volunteer directors, will offer a wand drill. Frank Alexander, wrestling and boxing instructor, will display the stars of his department.

Charles Tischoff, gymnastic instructor, will give an exhibition on the horizontal bars. The Rober's Club, composed mostly of senior members, will be seen in a gymnastic Russian ring dance. Stevens and Harris, old-time comedians, and "King Tut," in an Egyptian Indian club drill, will entertain.

Robert Muir, natatorium director, will keep the big tank busy, and the Red Cross Life Saving Corps will assist. Relay races, basketball game, the Northeastern University band and other numbers will also be on the bill.

SCHOOL MEET WILL BE HELD MARCH 16

Nathaniel C. Young, physical director of hygiene in Boston's schools, announces that the finals of the district school track championships will take place on March 14 at the East Armory instead of March 17 as originally scheduled.

This change was made as the big drill shed will be used on March 17 by the troops who will take part in the Evacuation Day parade.

The field events of this meet as well as for the regimental meet, will be held next Tuesday, and the trials in the runs, dashes and hurdles are booked for Thursday. This will force the boys to step out some in the trials in order to qualify and then plug hard the next day to place in the finals.

NORTHEASTERN AND AGGIES IN DUEL

The track team of the School of Engineering, Northeastern University, will take on the Massachusetts Aggies tomorrow afternoon, March 8.

Northeastern expects a very close meet, but Coach Zeller prophesies victory by a narrow margin. J. H. Torrey, the Northeastern ace, looks good for the dash, and the 300-yard run, although Roberts of the Aggies will probably make him travel at top speed.

In the six hundred Captain H. O. Fundin of the Engineers will fight it out with Don MacCready, the star M. A. C. middle-distance runner. In the 1,000-yard run MacCready will face warm competition from W. N. Parsons, Northeastern's best man in this event.

R. C. Shaw will run against Friend of the Aggies in the mile.

The Engineers expect to count heavily in the field events and in the hurdles.

The events will be as follows: 45-yard dash, 45-yard high hurdles (three flights); 300-yard dash; sixteen-pound shot-put; 1,000-yard run; one mile run, and a relay race, two laps per man.

MAYOR HONORED BY SOUTH BOSTON Y. C.

Mayor James M. Curley has been made one of five honorary members of the South Boston Yacht Club, which has been in existence since 1868.

Mayor Curley

An engraved certificate was mailed to the Mayor signifying this latest honor. The Mayor is not known to be an enthusiastic yachtsman, but by virtue of his official position, is commander ex-officio of the police boats Monitor, Guardian, Watchman and Ferret and of the steamer Perkins.

SNAPPY BOUTS FOR THE GRANITE SHOW

The Granite A. A. of Quincy has arranged a snappy card for its next show at Music Hall, Quincy tomorrow evening when it will present thirty-six rounds of boxing. The card is as follows: Paul DeSalvo, Quincy vs. Spike Hennessy, Waltham, 8 rounds; Jimmy Gardner, Quincy vs Larry Malia, South Boston, 8 rounds; Nick Madonna, Lexington vs Tibbie Laurie, Malden, 8 rounds; George Brady, Somervile vs Pat McCusker, Hartford, Conn., 6 rounds; Charlie Costello, East Boston vs Mike Kelly, Lewiston, Me., 6 rounds.

WINCHESTER GIRLS DEFEAT WATERTOWN

Watertown, champion of the Suburban Interscholastic Girls' Basketball League, was given its first setback by Winchester, 18 to 17.

Miss Dorothy Aseltine, left forward for Winchester, was the leading scorer, with ten points to her credit, and Miss Barbara Pike, Winchester's other forward, made eight points.

ARLINGTON GIRLS DEFEAT LEXINGTON

Arlington evened up for its earlier season defeat at the hands of Lexington, when in the closing Suburban Interscholastic Girls' Basketball League game, it won, 28 to 11.

Miss F. Braithwaite, right forward, and Miss M. Mahoney left forward, divided honors for the winner, each scored 14 points. Miss Sally Redman, captain and right forward for Lexington, scored all of Lexington's points.

CHANCE SHOWS THEM HE KNOWS HOW TO CATCH

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Hot Springs Ark, March 7.—The "David and Goliath battery" has become the natives' name for the Fowlkes-Albrecht combination of rookies, which daily teams up during the Red Sox workout.

Albrecht, who barely reaches five feet, six inches, and Fowlkes, who towers skyward 6 feet and ¼ inches, and who will pose for the long-of-it-short-of-it photographs, are hitting it off in great style, proving that opposites attract in baseball as well as in love.

They pal together, work out together, and, if they make the grade, as both believe they will, they plan to bunk together throughout the season.

A real workout at Whittington Park was on the books for today for the storm which prevented practice Sunday; cut short the practice Monday, and forced the athletes to confine their ball tossing efforts to a nearby sandlot on Tuesday, has disappeared and the sun—not an overly warm one—came forth once more.

The sandlot practice, however, augmented by a seven-mile hike over the Ozarks, gave the boys what they wanted for the day, and caused Manager Chance to remark that a real start had been made in preparing the squad for the approaching season.

Chance, Burke and Ryan Donned Mitts

Owing to the scarcity of catchers, Chance, as well as Jimmie Burke and Jack Ryan, the coaches, were called upon to don the big mitts yesterday and stand at the receiving end for the eleven twirlers now in camp.

There was less occasion for them to do so today, however, for Al Devormer, recent acquisition from the Yanks, and Bert Chaplin, a Red Sox regular last year, have now reported, ready for action.

The remaining battery candidates—Catcher Val Picinich and Pitcher Bill Piercy and Carl Holling—were expected today, and their arrival will complete the Red Sox battery list.

Doc Finley, the new trainer, has been laid low by a serious attack of indigestion, but was feeling somewhat better this morning and expects to be on deck in another day or two.

Babe Ruth and Mike Will Leave Today

The Yankee cripples, Babe Ruth and Mike McNally, were up and about today, and with Colonel Huston, Joe Bush and Bob Shawkey, were due to leave Hot Springs for the Yankee training camp in New Orleans late today.

The Pirates, who are to become the Red Sox playmates a bit later this month, put in their appearance today—at least their pitchers and catchers showed up—and they are "roaring" to go, as the poet said.

It is possible that a covered pitching pen may be erected jointly by the Red Sox and Pirates to insure practice space in the event of future rainstorms.

Manager Chance has been considering the proposition and expected to take up the matter with the Pittsburgh officials in the course of the week.

CAMBRIDGE CUBS ARE AFTER GAMES

The Cambridge Cubs will put a fast semi-pro team on the field this season. The Cubs will be composed of former and present Cambridge Latin and Rindge Tech players. Among the foremost players are John Carver, who is captain of Cambridge Latin, and Veno Kelly, captain of Rindge Tech. F. Davies and E. Conroy are other Latin stars who have signed to play. Barry St. George, former Rindge Tech star, is captain. Any team desiring an attraction may write to Joseph E. Rocha, No. 49 Webster avenue, Cambridge, or phone University 3394-W.

In 1921 he was left defence and he was a forward during the season just passed. He will be a senior next year.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Anne Demanded That Dad Lee Manage a Meeting With Dick West Before It Was Too Late and Drop His Constant Bluffing

By Ann Lisle

LAUGHED WITH INTENT TO IMPRESS BUT IT WASN'T ALL THEATRICALS.

"YOU were hurt at my suggestion that I don't love you as Dick West does," I flung at him. "Why should it? If you were to stand by me and mine as you've stood by [illegible] perhaps I'd begin to care for you. You've clearly shown that your devotion and loyalty are his. That's why he loves you—because you've earned it. Suppose you earned my faith——"

I left it there—in the air as it were, waiting to see if he'd reach up and seize upon it. What he did astonished me. He shambled to his feet and stood [illegible] weakly as if he were [illegible] at the shreds of a dignity [illegible] almost forgotten.

"Are you asking me to double-cross [illegible]" [illegible] demanded at last.

"Don't you think I'm able to take care of myself? Have you ever been able to get the best of me?" I asked, conquering my distaste at being [illegible] a possession—even of Jim's.

"No—but you need a man to [illegible] [illegible] that I am one of those [illegible] that need a groom—He He I guess I made a joke just when I was trying to do my best by you and kinda steer you back to the home pasture. Then, as if he blundered, Dad Lee rushed on: "So again I ask you—like a father would—why don't your own man come home and [illegible] after you? [illegible] planning to do it ever again."

[illegible]

"I never expected [illegible] right now," said Dad Lee.

"[illegible] get what you might call a [illegible] of me," I chirruped. "And now let's talk about Dick. Has he—gone after Jim?"

Dad Lee stared at me intently, as if he was trying to read my [illegible]

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

Start Here Today This Engrossing Story of Life and Love from the Master Pen of One of the World's Greatest Novelists

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

The crowd at Monte Carlo listens to the reading of the war news

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Atilio Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system. He refuses, but grows interested in her, and later calls at her home where she tells him she has a son in the war. Michael tries to make love to her but she resists.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

A PULSATING silence arose from the mass of human beings around the green tables. Everyone talked in a low voice as though in a church. From time to time the murmur was broken by a long swishing sound, a noise like that of pebbles on the shore swept by a wave—the rakes of the employes sweeping over the green cloth and carrying with them clashing coins and ivory chips, the spoils of the losings. The voices of the croupiers, like officers giving commands, rose above that feverishly buzzing hive:

A Tense Silence

"Faites vos jeux. Vos jeux sont faits? . . . . Rien ne va plus."

Gradually the hall lost the suppressed noise which accentuated its silence. People breathed more naturally as they craned their necks, the better to see over the shoulders of those in front of them. Women leaned far forward, standing on one foot, the other raised behind them, like dancers bending over to touch the ground with their hands. All crowded together without regard to the sex of those against whom they pushed.

During this pause, marked by long faces, frowning eyebrows, drawn mouths and converging glances, there responded, with its noise increased by a diabolical echo the rattling of the tiny ivory ball as it whirled in the grooves along the wooded rim, while the colored rows of the roulette wheel kept spinning like a kaleidoscope in the opposite direction.

Suddenly there was a sharp click. The ball had ended its circular flight and fallen into a number. The silence was prolonged. The spectators' necks were craned even more. There was a nervous clenching of fists. Again there was the sound of pebbles washed by the sea. The rakes were sweeping the green table.

A Bad Member.

It was a bad number for the players, and the gambling was shortly on again. But whenever a stifled uproar occurred because a hundred bosoms were suddenly breathing freely, it took the croupiers several minutes to resume play. They had to pay the winners and settle disputes between those who claimed the same bet. At the end of each play small groups at a table engaged themselves to go over to another; but the arrival of new spectators kept the ring of people always compact.

In this constantly changing crowd the Prince saw many well-known faces, for the whole world sooner or later passed that way. That floor, with its various inlaid woods, was one of the most frequented spots of Europe. It was something like the ancient Roman forum, a point on which all roads of the entire world converged. This room—the "Schmidt Drawing-Room," they called it—attracted idlers from the entire globe who had long dreamed of being able to go some time and risk a coin in the great Mediterranean gambling house.

Many Friends.

Men from other continents disembarking in the old world wrote Monte Carlo on the itinerary of their travels. But this human river which constantly glided along, receiving new waves of arrivals, kept leaving. In the cranneries of its shores, pools of stagnant waters, clogged with uprooted plants and the naked trunks of trees.

The Prince nodded to various persons who looked at him with a sort of cordial surprise, as though at a dead man brought to life. An old man, with a short, bristling beard on a face pale as a corpse, bowed deeply as he passed, without appearing offended, in his humility, at not receiving an acknowledgment.

He was the man most sought after and coaxed by the women who frequented the Casino. He wore a sort of black cap like that of a priest, and carried a hat in one hand.

On his coat lapel was a medal of enamel work with the Sacred Heart of Jesus. Atilio and Lewis had also sought him frequently. Michael was sure that this man was a friend of the Duchess de Delille and that on more than one occasion he had seen her tears. He loaned money at 5 per cent. every twenty-four hours, and the time he was not busy he spent watching new arrivals from a distance to see if they might turn out to be new clients.

The Prince received smiles also from certain respectable-looking women who, though by no means ugly were to stout in some parts and too slender in others, as though they had taken a course to reduce flesh without obtaining a uniform result. Seated on the divans in the corners, they talked among themselves and watched the groups of gamblers with the air of employes resting after duty.

These women had come to Monte Carlo years ago with jewels, with thousands of francs, and with men who had endured all the unevenness of their tempers and in addition gave them money; but everything had vanished on the Casino tables. Still they went on clinging to the reef on which they had been wrecked, or to the jettison of some other who was now following the same route.

For these women offered their services to strangers as persons acquainted with the mysteries of the house, advising honeymoon couples what number they should play as if they had discovered the secret! Besides this, they came to the Casino at the opening hour to obtain the best places at the tables and later give to wealthy players, steady clients who rewarded them generously if luck favored them.

He met still others also—old women whose age was accentuated by their strange apparel which recalled no particular style—dresses of bright color that had faded, which seemed to have been cut from old curtains and smelled like a musty old house, and monumental hats or spherical turbans made of mosquito netting. Some were thin as skeletons, while others were mountains of flying fat; but all of them were painted scandalously with vermilion and had blue rings around their lightless eyes.

A Bet for Luck

"A louis, Prince," murmured the most daring. "I am sure that you will bring me luck."

Michael knew who many of them were. One had been a sweetheart of Victor Emmanuel, another who was older recalled, with sighs, the days of Napoleon III, and of Morny.

They had all come to die in Monte Carlo, the last spot on earth still able to remind them of the splendors of sixty years before.

Michael observed with fresh interest the various parasites who lived by clinging to the gearing of this terrible machine, feeding on the crumbs it pulverized. He became interested in the crowd which was always apparently the same, though always with distinct individuals. There were some who walked along leaning on canes, invalids' canes tipped with rubber—the only kind allowed in the gaming rooms for fear of quarrels.

He noticed anemic women hobbling slowly along, gentlemen leaning on the arms of tall, robust fellows in braided uniforms, who led them in a fatherly fashion toward the roulette wheels and eased them into their chairs. A few paralytics arrived at the foot of the stairway in their carriages like children's carts, and thence were carried on hand-chairs through the rooms to their favorite spots.

At certain moments it seemed as though the gambling hall were a famous health resort, or a place of miracles like Lourdes. They came, just as incurable invalids come to other places, impelled by a last hope, but in this case the hope was not for health. That was the least of their cares. What galvanized them here was the hope of fortune, dreams of wealth. As though riches would be of any service to these poor bodies lacking all the appetites which make life pleasant!

The Demon of Hope

Mentally the Prince summed up all human passions in two pleasures which are the springs of all action—love and gambling. There were people who experienced equally the attraction of them both—Castro, for example. He himself had been interested only in love and could not understand the pleasures of gambling. Never when he had got up from the gaming tables—each time with winnings—had he felt any temptation to return. But, looking on these ailing people, some of them very aged, on these incurables, all of them dragging themselves toward the roulette wheel, as though toward a miraculous bath, he excused them pityingly. What other pleasure was there left for them on earth? How else was it possible for them to fill the emptiness of their lives, prolonged so tenaciously?

What he could not understand was the intense attitude, the hard faces of the other gamblers who were healthy and strong. Young men moved among the women around the tables with hostile brusqueness, quarrelling with them harshly and treating them like enemies.

Women suddenly lost their grace and freshness, becoming strangely masculine as they looked at the rows of cards of trente et quarante and the mad whirl of the colored wheel. Their gestures were those of prizefighters. Their mouths were drawn. There was a look of fierceness in their eyes.

As though warned instinctively of this transformation, no sooner did they tear themselves away from the tables than they took out vanity cases, the little mirror, the powder, and the rouge, to correct or efface the passing ravages of the play.

Occasionally a little bell would sound, rung by one of the employes in black frock coats who directed the playing. A chip, a coin, or a bank note had fallen under the table. Suddenly, with the promptness of a scene shifter waiting behind the stage, a lackey dressed in a blue and gold uniform appeared, carrying a dark lantern and a hook to rummage about among the players' feet until he found the lost object.

The discipline observable in these vast rooms was like that of a warship, where everything is in its place and every man at his post. In order to make sure that everything was going properly various respectable gentlemen with decorations on their coat lapels walked back and forth among the tables, with the air of officers on duty.

Whenever voices were raised, these men appeared with rapid strides, to cut short the arguments in some tactful manner. When two gamblers claimed the same bet, they immediately settled the dispute by paying both. The money would finally come back to the house, anyway!

YOUR BEAUTY

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza.
Famous Beauty and Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

"Her feet beneath her petticoat
Like little mice stole in an out
As if they feared the light."

THIS wrote Sir John Suckling in the seventeenth century. How astonished he would have been could he have seen the girl of today, with her trimly-shod and graceful, but far from mouse-like feet.

The modern girl does not wish a foot too small to be in proportion to the size of her finely-developed body. Her feet must be large enough and strong enough to support that body comfortably and to help her to swim, walk many miles and possibly guide a high-powered motor car and with ease, at the end of the day, to weave in and out in intricate fox trot or waltz.

Yes, tiny mouse-like feet, excepting on tiny women, have gone into the limbo of things forgotten, along with wasp-like waists and the marvelous fainting-away proclivities of Victorian-novel heroines.

The modern woman takes better care of her feet than the woman of any other age, with the exception, perhaps, of the period of sandaled Greek beauty.

First of all—and most important—her feet are scrupulous. She bathes them—carefully—at least once each day—to insure daintiness and to avoid the dangers of perspiration.

The daily cleaning of her hosiery helps her achieve this result. It takes but a moment to wash out a pair of stockings and frequent laundering not only increases their daintiness, but adds to their wearing qualities.

To dry your feet carefully—especially between the toes—is important. If they are put into shoes and stockings while still damp, they may chap and roughen or still more annoying, may crack and peel between the toes. Dusting them lightly with your favorite talcum powder is a pleasant finishing touch to the toilet of the feet.

Proper care of the nails is essential. Much the same implements may be employed as in manicuring finger nails, but the nails should be filed straight across the level of the tops and even with the sides of the toes.

Second only to cleanliness, the modern girl values comfortable and beautiful footgear.

There are lasts—and they are neither exorbitant in price nor hard to find, for practically all the wise manufacturers of shoes make them—which are the result of scientific investigations of the kind of shoe that gives the foot most freedom and comfort and does not drag it down with badly-balanced weight.

And when your feet are comfortable and strong and not in any way cramped, you are just that much more graceful in every movement. Your expression also is sure to be more pleasant. You are rid of one deadly enemy to charm and beauty—foot discomfort.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Is Unlucky for CONTRACTS

THE conditions today are slightly adverse from early morn until a little after 2 o'clock, especially as affecting any agreements or promises that have to be reduced to writing.

In the afternoon and until night conditions improve and are generally favorable, particularly for educational and social matters.

It would appear, therefore, that the early part of the day, so far as business is concerned, should not be [illegible] in drawing up contracts or the making of covenants guaranteeing future obligations.

Nothing is ever lost when the signs are so clear in their meaning, in waiting and deferring for a little while decisions of an important character. The man who wants to [illegible] you is [illegible] to be trusted in business than in the affairs of the heart.

It would seem that this day should be exceptionally propitious for subjects of a scholastic or educational nature and any social entertainment given today promises to be crowned with success.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

By Blanche Silver.

Dotty Learns Something New.

"GO away, you horrid insect!" Dotty cried, as the big spider crawled over her pretty white apron. "You horrid old thing!" And Dotty shook her apron so that the spider flew through the air and landed on the log at her side. "I just hate bugs!"

"Well! Is that any reason why you should take your spite out of me?" asked a tiny voice, and the spider crawled up closer to Dotty and began wiping its face with its foot. "Just because you hate insects is no reason you should throw me around in that way."

"Excuse me if I seemed rude," said Dotty softly. She hardly knew what to say when she found the spider was out of the ordinary. She had never heard a spider speak so plainly before, and she felt ashamed to think she had tossed it away so suddenly. "I really didn't mean to be rude," she added. "But I'll have to confess I despise insects of any kind."

"I don't blame you," laughed the spider. "I'm not fond of insects either—unless they are the kind that I can eat. Why, I've often told my husband we have a great many things to be thankful over, and above all that we are not insects."

"Not insects!" exclaimed Dotty. "What in the world do you mean? I thought all spiders were insects!"

"A common mistake among you giant folk," replied Mrs. Spider. "This is not the first time I've been called an insect. Yes, a great many persons think we belong to the insect tribe. But they're mistaken. We aren't insects at all. In the first place"—and Mrs. Spider stretched her long neck and looked to see if anyone was listening—"we are perfect when we hatch from the egg, instead of passing through many stages of growth. You see, most insects—in fact, all of them—hatch as larvae, then have to go through several stages before they are full grown. We don't."

"Well, I never heard that before," said Dotty.

"Then there's another thing," added Mrs. Spider, stretching out her legs. "Count them! Eight in all. Well, right there we beat an insect by two. Insects never have more than six legs. Another way you can distinguish spiders from insects is because our bodies are divided into two parts, and the bodies of insects are divided into three. But pshaw," she laughed, "what's the good of having eight legs if we don't use it to help ourselves? So if you'll excuse me, I'll go back to my work." And without another word, Mrs. Spider trotted off toward her home.

"What Do You Mean?"

Dotty watched her until she was out of sight and then ran home to ask her mother whether what she had just heard was true.

Another fine story tomorrow.

Equipment Stocks Establish New 1923 Highs in Irregular New York Stock Market

NEW BUYING IN CARRIERS IS EVIDENT

Baldwin and American Locomotive led the equipments in an irregular New York stock market today, setting new year's highs.

Resumption of yesterday's selling in some quarters coincident with fresh buying in others imparted an irregular trend to the opening prices.

Domestic oil and copper shares were among the first to move to higher ground, some of the early leaders being California Petroleum common and preferred, Cosden, Shell Transport, Utah and American Smelting.

American Agricultural Chemical preferred opened 2 points higher.

New buying also was noted in the rails, Reading opening ½ higher.

Copper Group Mostly Steady in Boston

Coppers were mostly steady in transaction on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Calumet & Hecla was up 5 points to 385. Mohawk shaded over a point. There were fractional gains for Quincy, North Butte and Wolverine, while slight recessions showed in Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range and Isle Royale.

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway adjustments rose 1¼ at 38 and the trust certificates 1 at 38. Boston & Maine Class D and Island Creek Coal yielded a point each. Swift International gave way a point on a 2-share sale.

There were fractional gains for Boston Elevated, American Telephone, Boston & Maine, Carson Hill Gold, Eastern Manufacturing, Waldorf, Gray & Davis, Edison & Connor Stores.

Small setbacks came for Ventura Oil, Massachusetts Gas, American Pneumatic and Walworth.

KARDOS & BURKE TRUSTEE CHANGED

New York, March 7.—L. Barton Case, attorney, of No. 41 East Forty-second street, has been elected trustee of the defunct stock brokerage firm of Kardos & Burke. He succeeds Robert P. Stephenson, originally chosen trustee at the time of the failure in February, 1922, who has resigned.

At a special meeting of the creditors yesterday Referee Peter B. Olney agreed to the selection of Mr. Case, at the same time fixing his bond at $50,000, an increase of $[illegible],000. This is due to the fact that the assets of the bankrupt have been steadily increasing and are now listed at $67,000 in cash, and $100,000 in marketable securities. Liabilities total more than $2,000,000. The auditor's report will be submitted at the next hearing, March 12.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

How far ahead do you try to look? Many men don't look as far ahead as a squirrel does.

Some extraordinarily successful business giants whom I know plan for ten years ahead.

* * *

Lord Leverhulme, perhaps the ablest business leader in Britain, talks freely of what he plans to do ten years from now, although he is seventy-two. Harriman was a ten-year-ahead man. Edison has always had a tremendously long vision. James Stillman, the banker, once impressed upon me that many men failed to attain large successes in business because they sacrificed a big profit ten years in the future for the sake of an immediate dollar.

* * *

Among the younger generation of unusually farsighted industrial leaders are Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem Steel; Thomas E. Wilson, the packer; John D. Ryan, the copper and brass king; James B. Duke, the tobacco leader, who has turned to developing electric power and cotton manufacturing in the South; Charles E. Mitchell, who developed the National City Company and is now president of the National City Bank of New York; W. E. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co.; Owen D. Young, the recently elected head of the General Electric Company; J. B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company; Cyrus H. K. Curtis (seventy years young), the publisher; Robert Dollar (eighty years young), the lumber and steamship magnate; W. R. Hearst, the publisher; Henry L. Doherty, the public utility and oil developer; Percy H. Johnston, the New York banker; William Wrigley, of chewing gum fame; Walter Teagle, the Standard Oil president; James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation.

* * *

My mind was drawn to this subject at a conversation at a luncheon this week, attended by many prominent men of affairs. One of them, a well known international banker, was discussing with me the rapid gait business has lately been developing. After we had talked about how long the boom now under swing could or would last, he said this:

"I don't believe, however, that in the future our setbacks will be half as severe as the panics we have had in the past. And I believe we will recover much quicker than we used to.

* * *

"Maybe you haven't stopped to think that, apart from our vastly improved banking system, there is another consideration which should make our upsets less serious in the future. Our financial disturbances here were usually aggravated terribly by the dumping on this market of millions and millions of dollars' worth of American securities, held in Europe. We were always more or less at the mercy of Europe in this respect.

"But the position is now entirely changed. Europe no longer holds billions of our securities. She cannot, therefore, swamp our market as she did at awkward moments in the past.

* * *

"This makes a tremendous difference. It should help us to take much better care of things when we have relapses in the future. Of course, we are going to have relapses at times. But panics like what we have known during the last fifty years and more should be a thing of the past."

Doesn't this strike you as sound reasoning?

The talk of these long-headed financial and business leaders impressed upon me forcibly the fact that they are looking quite a distance ahead and striving earnestly to analyze what the next turn of the business wheel of fortune is likely to bring.

* * *

Are you?

MIDVALE BONDS NEARLY ALL DEPOSITED

Midvale Stel & Ordnance Company announces there have been deposited, as assenting to the Bethlehem-Midvale purchase plan, more than $22,000,000 Midvale bonds, or about 80 per cent. of the amount required for the consummation of the plan. Of the balance still required, the committee has received assurance of deposit of substantial additional amounts. Bondholders who have so promised, and others who have not already arranged to deposit are being urged to do so at once in order that the plan may be consummated on March 12, the date of the Midvale and Bethlehem stockholders' meetings.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as trustee of the Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company 20-year 5 per cent. convertible sinking fund gold bonds, yesterday announced to the bondholders that it has formally expressed its approval of the modifications suggested by the Midvale company in connection with the Bethlehem-Midvale purchase plan, and that it recommends to the bondholders the adoption of the plan as being clearly in their interest.

The plan when consummated will give to the Midvale bonds a direct mortgage lien with increased security instead of the present collateral lien through stock and will provide for their guaranty by Bethlehem. In order to obtain indorsement of this guaranty upon the bonds it is necessary to forward them for deposit with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as depositary for the proxy committee, or an agent of the depositary.

The proxy committee which has been appointed to represent the bondholders consist of Frederic W. Allen of Lee, Higginson & Company; William E. Corey, chairman of the board of Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company; Charles L. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York; William C. Potter, president of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and Percy A. Rockefeller, of the executive committee of Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company.

Boston Notes

LLOWEL plant of Saco-Lowell Co. will increase its working force by 300 shortly.

SCOVILLE Manufacturing Co. of Waterbury, Ct., grants increase of three cents an hour in wages of unskilled labor. Chase Companies announce similar advance and American Brass Co. has increased wages in various departments.

KERR Mills of American Thread Co. at Fall River have curtailed, on account of slack business, from 5½ days a week to five days a week.

ISLAND Creek Coal Co. loaded about 199,000 tons of coal in February. While in tons this amount is practically the same as January, it represents a higher average daily due to fewer working days.

CONSOLIDATED Textile is credited with rising 700,000 spindles. About 650,000 spindles are actively producing. If these are steadily operated there is ample capacity to assure satisfactory earning power.

UTAH directors meet in New York in near future to act on first 1923 dividend. It would not be a surprise if they declared $1.

BUTTE & Superior, under its contract to supply 30,000 tons of zinc ore a month to Anaconda, is assured the prevailing market, less the usual smelting charges.

CHILE, with costs of less than six cents a pound, could sell copper at 13⅛ to ⅞ cents, price prevailing during last part of 1922, and make good profits.

ANACONDA'S equity in the profits of Chile should be around $8,250,000, estimating 16 cents for copper, a cost of 7 cents and output of 200,000,000 pounds which will soon be 225,000,000.

AMERICAN Brass on production of 550,000,000 pounds of fabricated products should be earning almost $1,000,000 a month, but net may be conservatively estimated at $10,000,000 a year.

RUTLAND Railroad, jointly controlled by New York Central and New Haven through ownership of about 52 per cent. of preferred stock, has considerably improved net earnings.

NEW HAVEN has no maturities of consequence until 1925, when the extended European loan comes due. Its cash position is still comfortable.

BOSTON & Providence, New Haven leased line, has $2,170,000 debenture gold 6s coming due July 1, 1923.

CENTRAL Aguirre Sugar directors meet around the middle of March for dividends. There is no reason to anticipate change in the $6 rate until company's labor outlook becomes clearer.

HORNBLOWER & WEEKS—Continue to hold stocks until there is sufficient advance in particular stock you are holding to warrant profit-taking, not minding rest of market.

A USE FOR RATS

For many years I have tried to discover some excuse for the existence of rats. At last I have found one. In the coal regions of Pennsylvania the mines are infested with rats. The miners encourage their presence and even bring them food to eat. No miner will go where there is no rats. The reason for this solicitude on the part of the miners is because the rat is most useful in detecting the deadly gases that cause such large loss of life in the coal mines. If the miners find the rats disappearing from the workings they know something is amiss and look for danger.

This may be all right for coal miners, but no one in this "neck of the woods" has any use for rats, and has not to my knowledge discovered any. Their destructive habits, their deadly plague fleas and tendency of getting at matches and setting disastrous fires doesn't endear them to anybody. Extermination is the watchword throughout New England. It is easy to say this, but another thing to carry it to a successful conclusion.

The greatest measure of success has been obtained through the use of "Martin's Rat Powder." This powder is used to clean out some of the largest buildings in Boston and vicinity. Many public and private institutions are using with great success, and countless households rely upon it to keep their premises free from rats. It is sold by all drug and department stores for 60c and $1.20 per can. 65c and $1.30 by mail. Send money order, check or cash with mail orders. As there are 11 different powders for other pests be sure and specify kind when ordering.

"This Is Our Private Struggle"—France

It Was Different in 1917

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The French declare themselves much pleased with the vote in the House of Commons against interference in the Ruhr invasion. As a matter of fact, any vote other than the one cast would have been a vote to criticize the government and put out Bonar Law. Therefore the vote had no meaning as regards the Ruhr. It was a vote of confidence for Bonar Law.

You read with interest the statement, "Poincare wants the rest of the world to regard the Franco-German struggle as a private one." You can remember not so long ago when another "Franco-German struggle" was going on, and when the French did not wish the rest of the world to regard it as a private fight. In fact, we were invited quite earnestly to come in, with men and money, and whatever else we had. Advice then, and help, were quite acceptable.

The struggle becomes a "private one" when one of the strugglers has got the other down on his back and is pounding him comfortably.

However, as far as the United States is concerned, that struggle may REMAIN private, and the same will be true of future struggles that are coming. They are not our business, and won't be. Let Europe settle them.

Wisconsin Abolishes Militia

Big States Learn From Each Other

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The State of Wisconsin votes to abolish its militia. Every State knows what it wants, but forty-seven other States look on somewhat puzzled. You don't have to USE a gun because you happen to have one, and sometimes it is awkward NOT to have one.

A self-governing State like Wisconsin, one of the most intelligent in the Union, should be able, it seems, to possess a militia force without danger of having that force turned against the citizens.

However, one beauty of our system is the possibility of making forty-eight kinds of laws and even forty-eight kinds of mistakes in the forty-eight States without doing any great harm. The mistake, or wisdom of one, is the education of the others.

Germany's Land to Germany

We Didn't Own It

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

General Allen, who commanded the American troops on the Rhine while they were there, said he had no instructions as to what to do with the German land that we occupied. He turned that area over to the French.

Since it is GERMAN soil, not part of land seized after the war, why did he not hand it back to the Germans and let the allies or some of them take it away again if they wanted it?

It isn't any part of AMERICAN business to dispose of German soil, the understanding having been that we weren't going to get anything out of the war—not even the right to hand over part of Germany to somebody else.

Coal Famine Blame

Interstate Commerce Commission Placed It Wrongly on Coal Miners and Railroad Shopmen Who Struck

The Interstate Commerce Commission reports against an embargo on shipments of hard coal to Canada, while Canada does not hesitate to place an embargo on shipping things to the United States which Canadians want to keep at home. This report also contains an attempt in its opening paragraph by inference to place the blame for the coal situation upon the workingmen who mine the coal and upon the railroad shopmen who went on a strike to prevent the arbitrary reduction of their wages last Summer.

We are not at all surprised that the Interstate Commerce Commission undertakes to put the blame upon the workingmen, where the blame does not belong. As the head of one of the greatest coal distributories in America said the other day in a public letter to Senator Walsh, "The miners have been ready and willing and anxious to mine the coal and to put it on board the cars. But they are not able to work more than two days a week, because it only takes them two days a week to mine the coal and put it upon all the cars that they can get."

Last year the miners went on a strike and two years before they also went on a strike, and both times they struck in order that they might work AT LEAST five days a week to get a living wage. But under the conditions in which they are obliged to do their work they are not able to work on the average more than three days a week through the year. They demanded the chance and they fought for the chance to work five days. The railroads, however, who own the coal mines, and other railroads who serve the mining territory, give it such bad service for purposes of their own that the miners cannot work more than two or three days a week without accumulating coal that cannot be transported. This results in holding in the mining districts a very large number of miners who are not needed at all. If there were fewer miners and they worked a full week it would cost far less to mine the coal and the coal would cost far less to the consumer, and thousands of able-bodied men would be released for other work.

So much for the miners' responsibility and for the railroads' responsibility for not keeping the miners at work.

As to the responsibility of the strike of the shopmen the case is perfectly clear. The railroads knew when they undertook to deflate labor in their shops that they entered into a conspiracy to throw out of employment the vast army of shopmen in order to turn over the work to private companies in which their officers had a private interest. That was one of the first conspiracies of railroad private management entered into immediately after the government so unfortunately turned the railroads back to private management. Then the private managers started to deflate the shopmen's labor. They went on a strike. The railroad managers knew perfectly well what the result of that strike would be, and they ought to be held responsible by the public for the natural and probable consequences. The law always holds a man responsible for the natural and probable consequences of his act.

WINIFRED BLACK ON WIVES

By Winifred Black

A. L. CLARK, chief of the New Jersey Bureau of Markets, stood up in a public meeting the other day and made a few remarks about the American housekeeper.

He said that the American woman is too lazy and too selfish and too vain to go to market.

"The housewife spends hours shopping for clothes, and about four or five minutes ordering her day's supply of food," said Mr. Clark.

"She doesn't know one turnip from another, and furthermore she's not interested. And then she wonders why men leave home."

True? Well, I'm afraid that what Mr. Clark said isn't so very far from the truth.

The American woman doesn't seem to care such an awful lot about home-making.

Oh! yes, she likes to buy sofa pillows and made curtains and have shaded lamps and things, but cooking—why spend two good hours cooking a dinner for John when there's a perfectly good ready-to-eat shop right around the corner, and if you go to the half-past two performance you can slip in and carry enough home in a couple of paper-bags to warm up before John gets there—and he'll never know the difference.

Besides if she hangs over a kitchen stove for hours what kind of a complexion will she have? And she's simply got to hold John's love—with her complexion!

Which do you really want us to be, gentlemen—honestly now, cross your hearts—flappers or housekeepers?

Speak up in plain English and give us a chance to choose, won't you, please.

Maybe if we knew honestly and truly—we'd try to deserve the comfort and kindness some of you do give to some of us who don't always seem to earn them.

Paper Furniture Now in Vogue

BERLIN, March 7.—An addition to the list of substitutes, for which Germany has become famous since the war, has been made by the development of a process for making furniture out of paper.

The inventor, Karl Abt, declares that the finished product is thoroughly substantial and serviceable. Preparations are being made for large scale production.

Do Women Talk Too Much?

Editor Boston American:

A few days ago as I boarded a street car I found a seat next to a middle-aged man who was deeply interested in the columns of the Boston American.

"Great newspaper this," he said. "I can only wish it further success. Yes, The women folks all read it, and when they read it they don't talk, and when they don't talk I have a little peace and quiet."

It would be interesting to know whether this man is an amateur humorist or a down-trodden, henpecked husband. At any rate, his remark, whether it is facetious or ill-tempered, suggests the possibility that maybe we all talk too much—including the complaining gentleman. But, after all, do women talk more than men? Every community has a man whose first name is almost forgotten he has been called "Windy" so long. Women's gatherings resound with talk, talk and more talk; but so, too, the lodge room, the barber shop and the street corner. A safe rule is, Don't say anything unless you have something to say.

ALBERT VILLA.

Elevated Terminal

Editor Boston American:

Why don't the officials of the Boston Elevated use a little judgment occasionally and think beyond present-day needs? They tried to put a surface car terminal near Commonwealth avenue and Harvard avenue, Allston, and now they are considering putting it near Kenmore station. Why select such high-priced land and in such congested sections when there are hundreds of acres of vacant land on Warren street, Allston, between Commonwealth and Brighton avenues? That is the logical location for such a terminal, as it could be easily used by cars going out both Commonwealth and Brighton avenues. Perhaps the other sites are preferred by certain officials because the land is owned by certain people.

No Georgia Ban on Norwegian

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7.—The government of Norway has asked Secretary of State S. G. McLendon of Georgia whether or not there is any legislation discriminating against the Norwegian language in this State.

Search disclosed the fact that the only languages barred in this State are: Profane, abusive, vile, offensive and a few others. But nothing was said of the Norwegian.

Those familiar with the Norwegian language stated that they did not think special legislation was needed to prevent its widespread use in Georgia.

BERLIN IS LIKE A VOLCANO

BERLIN, March 7.—Berlin has fallen foul of the aphorists, and when this happens to a city it betokens the achievement of either celebrity or notoriety. Heinx Pollak, the aphorist in this case, knows his present-day Berlin at first hand and allows his wit to sparkle in the following pungent phrases:

Berlin is like a dirty towel, which those with hygienic instincts are careful to use only around the edges.

Berlin is like a volcano not yet fully in action.

Berlin is a woman who dares not show herself on the streets for fear the men will insult her.

Berlin is like scintillating fireworks set off in a snowstorm.

ANTAEUS IS STILL IN BUSINESS AT THE OLD STAND

By Herbert Kaufman

ANTAEUS was a giant. Everybody who passed through his country was invited to come and take a fall out of him. The more he was knocked down the stronger he grew.

In 1911 the United States broke Standard Oil up into a lot of separate companies. Now, contrary to what we used to learn in school, several of the parts are greater than the whole concern used to be. Antaeus is still invincible.

The Senate Investigating Committee, which hasn't yet explained why the last day of Congress was chosen for the report, accuses Standard Oil of all the coercive practices that the Sherman act was supposed to eliminate from its system a dozen years ago.

Senator La Follette predicts dollar gasoline if this monopoly isn't soon smashed.

"You Got Der Moon Yet, Ain'd It"

Mr. Walter Teagle, speaking for No. 120 Broadway, generally denies the impeachment, but doesn't discuss net earnings of a billion dollars or stock dividends of $793,000,000 from three subsidiaries with a combined capital stock of 943 odd millions.

Instead, Mr. Teagle suggests that America may turn to industrial alcohol and benzol, whenever we think gasoline is too expensive.

History repeats itself. "If they have no bread, why not eat cake?" suggested Marie Antoinette.

One also remembers a certain Mayor of St. Louis from whom citizens demanded better lighted streets. "You got der moon, yet, ain'd it?"

Something unpleasant and prompt happened to both of them.

Mr. Teagle would do well to restrain his grim humor.

Not So Simple as It Sounds

A supply of industrial alcohol (which hasn't at all proved its case for the automobile) equivalent to present annual "gas" consumption, could not be obtained before adequate distilleries were erected. Those distilleries would require years to construct. And no one knows yet how or where we'd find a sufficiency of raw materials to supply them.

We can't use our diminishing forests—grain is out of the question and available cheap byproducts won't even begin to provide a ration for Mr. Ford's thirsty little chuggers.

Benzol must come from petroleum or coal tar. That brings us back to Standard Oil or takes the fuel from our furnace bins and puts it into chemical retorts.

Come again, Mr. Teagle.

Quite a Touching Little Tableau

It is suggested that far from oppressing competition, Standard Oil has actually fostered it.

In a few days you'll probably read that scores of independents have been protected by the maintenance of prices just high enough to keep them in business.

If gasoline were cheaper they'd have to close shop.

La Follette paints a picture of ruthlessness and greed—experts will shortly revise that canvas into a touching tableau of brotherly love.

Some folks, it would seem, are so blinded by prejudice that they can't tell a profiteer from a philanthropist.

Incidentally, common stock of the Standard Oil of Indiana increased in value from $2,520 in 1912 to $39,000 a share in 1923.

The Wizards Are Hard at It

A Chicago undertaker says he can make a better mummy than Tutankhamen. Unimportant, if true.

Far more interesting news from Boston, where physicians stop whooping cough with X-rays. The first cure for that childhood terror, but not the last to be credited to light theraphy. Hope burns bright in the Crookes tube. Cancer is meeting defeat there.

Radio, too, keeps piling marvel on marvel. Now its high pitched vibrations are heard by the deaf. Ears from the air.

And eyes, too. Photographs have just been flashed direct from negatives. A picture sent from Washington to Philadelphia is easily recognizable. The principle is established—perfection will quickly follow.

Before long you'll have a machine in your home over which you'll chat with friends across seas and continents and watch them as they talk.

A Scandinavian inventor promises to furnish phones with a disk on which messages will be recorded for absentees. Touch a button and electricity sponges the plate.

The wizards are hard at it.

But man has his limits. The human fly crawled once too often. He fell from the face of a New York skyscraper. The mind may dare any limit, but apes can do some things better than we. Draw your own conclusions.

More Ladders for the Trojan Horse

After making application for citizenship, he brings three friends to substantiate his eligibility and wastes days waiting for a hearing.

Meanwhile, one of his vouchers leaves the city. More delay. The others refuse finally to hang around the Federal Building. Workingmen aren't masters of their time. America in the end loses a desirable.

The Labor Department must furnish more ladders if the Trojan horse is to be emptied of its unnationals.

More efficient methods will do much to expedite the revision of population statistics. There are usually two sides to a story.

Put Jupiter on the Job

Five hundred million dollars went up in smoke last year and as much more was spent on fire-fighting equipment.

Carelessness is mainly to blame for a line of burning houses that have been pictured as reaching side by side in a two-story row, clear from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

If Mr. Ford will build some cheap and efficient trucks and engines for big farmers and little villages, much of this loss might be checked.

Better electrical inspection is also necessary and more care with dropped matches and lighted cigarettes would help still more.

But our main hope is in rain-making aeroplanes. Jupiter Pluvius is the best lad for the job.
